Closing of Forests Suspends Hunting Deer, Pheasants

Governor Puts Ban on All Lands Effective 6 P.M. Because of Drouth All Over State

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 24 (AP)—The fire hazard in bone-dry areas of the state has led Gov. Dewey to suspend all hunting seasons and close all public and private lands to the public, effective at 6 p. m. tonight.

Dewey's order, issued yesterday, covers all the state except Long Island, and is effective until further notice.

The move put off the opening of the Adirondack deer season, which had been set for tomorrow, and the pheasant season, which was to have begun Monday.

Public Safety Measure

The governor said he "regretted exceedingly that the order was necessary, but public safety required it." He noted that 44 forest fires had been reported since Monday and that 14 still were burning.

The Weather Bureau offered no hope of a soaking rain before Monday.

The governor recommended that hunting seasons later be extended to make up for the days lost by the suspension—if Conservation Commissioner Perry B. Duryea found it in the best inteersts of the state's wild game resources.

Permits still will be granted for camping at state sites in the Adirondack Forest Preserve.

Persons also may enter woods and field to conduct necessary business, reach their homes or hotels, pass over regular roads and fish or hunt ducks from boats on waters reachable by regular roads.

Acres Burn in Jersey

Trenton, N. J., Oct. 24 (AP)—New Jersey's tinder-dry woodlands are due to be closed at midnight tomorrow at the order of Gov. Alfred E. Driscoll.

In the past few days thousands of acres of forest have been burned in the state. Yesterday state Fire Warden William J. Seidel reported 21 fires in the state and had scorched more than 1,000 acres.

Driscoll's order, made in a proclamation yesterday, closes the woodlands to everyone except owners and public officials doing their jobs.

Hunters, except those seeking migratory water fowl, are barred, as Driscoll banned all open seasons. He said he hoped the forests would be able to be reopened by Nov. 7, when the upland hunting season is due to begin.

Taylor Says Senate Not for Support; Wicks Determined

New York, Oct. 24 (AP) — Republican State Chairman Dean P. Taylor says he has advised acting Lt. Gov. Arthur Wicks that the state Senate probably won't support him in a showdown vote.

However, Taylor says Wicks thinks otherwise.

Taylor yesterday confirmed reports he had suggested to Wicks that he step aside as Senate majority leader, the post which automatically made him acting lieutenant governor to fill a vacancy.

Wicks' office at Kingston, N. Y., said the senator had no comment on conversations with Taylor.

Gov. Thomas E. Dewey has asked Wicks to resign as majority leader because Wicks visited extortionist Joey Fay at Sing Sing prison. Wicks refused, saying he would put the issue in Senate hands. Dewey called a special session for Nov. 17.

Met in New York

Taylor, who recently was named to the post with the backing of Dewey, said he talked to Wicks last Wednesday night when they met accidentally in New York and again the next day by long distance telephone from New York to Kingston.

"I told him that after traveling about the state, talking to various county chairmen, attending party functions, I had reached the conclusion that he could not win if his name is presented again to the Senate," Taylor said.

Wicks Determined

Taylor said Wicks did not agree and said he had determined to put the matter to a Senate test. The GOP chairman added that "we did leave the door open for us to get together again, in case he (Wicks) felt there was room for further discussion."

Wicks said he had seen Fay, once an AFL union power, in the interest of labor peace in his senatorial district. The senator said Fay continued to exert influence on labor from prison and that there was nothing wrong in the visits. Wicks stated his case last Sunday and Tuesday in statewide radio and television programs.

Dr. Walter Levy of 128 Fair street will leave Sunday to attend the fifth annual Scientific Assembly of the New York State Academy of General Practice at Hotel Statler in New York. The meetings will continue through Thursday.

Show Cause on Release of List Asking for Parole Is Late for Term

Because of the failure of an attorney to check on the time for holding special terms of the Supreme Court there is little likelihood of the show cause order in the Wagner vs. State Parole Board being heard before Justice Harry E. Schirick at Albany on Tuesday.

Justice Schirick is holding a trial term in Albany and there is no special term scheduled for Tuesday. Unless the attorney general consents to the matter being heard before Justice Schirick and waives jurisdiction it will becoming necessary to secure another order to show cause returnable at a regular special term, since under Article 78 show cause orders of this kind must be noticed before a regular or designated special term.

Up to Attorney General

This morning Justice Schirick said that he expected later today to be informed if the attorney general would waive jurisdiction and consent to the matter coming before him in Albany Tuesday.

The action was started when Robert F. Wagner, Jr., Democratic candidate for mayor of New York, started a court fight to force the State Parole Board to make public the names of all those who have tried to get parole for labor extortionist Joseph S. Fay.

An order to show cause was secured from Justice Thomas A. Aurelio, which was made returnable before Justice Schirick at Albany Tuesday. The attorney in preparing the order apparently had not checked to ascertain whether this was a regular special term. An order of this kind cannot be made returnable before a trial term.

FBI Agents Call Cab Driver In New Move on Kidnaping

St. Louis, Oct. 24 (AP)—FBI agents routed John Hager out of bed at his home here early today in a surprise development in the Bobby Greenlease kidnap-slaying case.

Hager was the cab driver who gave police the tip that led to the arrest of Carl Austin Hall.

Hall and Mrs. Bonnie Brown Heady are now held in Kansas City under federal kidnaping charges in the case.

Hager was questioned recently by police officials here who are conducting a secret inquiry into reported discrepancies in officers' accounts of the arrests in the kidnap case.

The FBI refused to comment on today's developments.

Hager's wife told newsmen two men who identified themselves as FBI agents told Hager they were going to take him to the office.

At virtually the same time this took place, FBI agents and police seized an unidentified man and a blonde woman from a downtown hotel. Along with two suitcases and an overnight bag.

The FBI refused comment on whether there was any connection between the pair and the Greenlease case.

FBI and police have been conducting an intensive hunt for the missing half of the $600,000 ransom money paid by Robert C. Greenlease of Kansas City in an effort to secure the freedom of his 6-year-old son.

Nearly half the money was found in Hall's possession when he was arrested but Hall contends he does not know what happened to the other $300,000.

Meanwhile, St. Louis police officials continued a secret inquiry into police officers' accounts of the arrests in the case.

Red Leader Is Critical In Slugging

Robert Thompson Has Operation for Crushed Skull After Prison Assault by Seaman

New York, Oct. 24 (AP)—Robert G. Thompson, convicted Communist leader who was attacked by a self-described anti-Red in the Federal House of Detention, remained in criticel condition today after long and delicate brain surgery.

Thompson, 38, lay in a prison ward of Bellevue Hospital following an operation last night. He was in the operating room about five hours for the surgery, performed in an effort to relieve pressure on the brain from his crushed skull.

His assailant Alexander Pavlovich, 32-year-old Yugoslav seaman who was to have been deported last night, was kept at the detention house pending an investigation of the incident.

Detention authorities, who described Pavlovich as a trouble-making alien, said there was no evidence of any ideological quarrel between the two and took the view the Yugoslav staged the attack yesterday to delay his deportation.

Was in Lunch Time

Thompson, a war hero later convicted of plotting to teach and advocate the violent overthrow of the American government, was struck down while he and Pavlovich were in line with 30 or 40 other prisoners awaiting lunch in the Detention House on Manhattan's lower west side.

Pavlovich was reported to have suddenly drawn a section of lead pipe from his prison garb. Thompson was struck on the skull twice before guards intervened. The Communist leader was knocked unconscious.

Frank F. Kenton, acting superintendent of the detention house, who told newsmen of the attack, is said it apparently was unprovoked.

There was no immediate explanation of how the alien obtained the pipe. However, one report was that he apparently found it in a section of the detention house where plumbers had been working.

Shifted for Security

Officials said Pavlovich had been transferred to the detention house from Ellis Island last February for greater security. While at Ellis Island he had tried desperately to stave off deportation, once trying to escape and once making what officials described as a "phony" wrist-slashing suicide attempt.

Pavlovich entered the United States in 1951 by jumping ship at Portland, Ore. He later served a brief jail term in Chicago for attempted petty larceny and in 1952 was brought to Ellis Island for deportation.

Refugee From Tito

Since then he has fought deportation, contending he is a refugee from Marshall Tito's regime. He has argued through counsel in Federal Court that he participated in the assassination of political enemies and would be executed if returned to Yugoslavia.

The government says Pavlovich "has submitted no probative evidence of any kind to support his claim and has rested entirely on his own self-serving declarations. . . ."

Police Guard Civic Leader After Threat

New York, Oct. 24 (AP) — A Yonkers civic leader is under police guard today after reporting a death threat if he didn't "lay off the Yonkers Raceway."

The target of the threat, via an anonymous telephone call, was William T. Cox, head of a civic association which twice has complained to Gov. Thomas E. Dewey that the track draws "thugs, degenerates and other unsavory characters" to the neighborhood.

Cox said he got the call Thursday night before he left for a meeting of the Kimball Avenue Civic Association.

Cox said the caller warned him: "Lay off the Yonkers Raceway if you don't you'll find your body in the gutter."

A call to police that same night, Cox said, resulted in no protective measures, with an officer in charge saying the message might have been the work of a crank.

Meanwhile, Cox resigned as head of the civic group on the insistence of his wife.

Four Former Tax Agents Convicted In Defraud Scheme

Fifth Man Is Acquitted of Charges; Others Will Be Sentenced Next Thursday

New York, Oct. 24 (AP)—Four former income tax agents in New York state were convicted last night of taking part in a tax-fixing ring to shakedown taxpayers. A fifth was acquitted.

Found guilty by a Federal Court jury were Maurice F. O'Brien, 56, former head of the Internal Revenue at Troy, and three of his assistants: Murray Talanker, 45, David Witt, 56, and Abraham Inkles, 34.

Acquitted was Edwin F. Rourke, 32.

The government had presented evidence to show that 17 taxpayers in the Albany area paid approximately $35,000 for the fixing of fradulent returns.

Jury Out Four Hours

The verdict against the four was returned after the jury deliberated four hours. The conviction carried possible penalties of three years in prison and $5,000 fines each.

Judge Henry W. Goddard set next Thursday for sentencing.

Goddard continued O'Brien and Talanker in $$5,000 bail and Witt and Inkeles in $2,000 bond.

The trial grew out of an alleged tax-fixing scheme during during the period from December, 1946, to August, 1952.

The prosecution specifically charged the five with conspiracy to defraud the government by depriving the United States of honest service as revenue agents.

During the trial Rourke, of Albany, had been named in only one case—involving the Acme Glove Corp., of Gloversville. In this case, the government charged, Rourke received a "cut" of $3,000 in cash paid by a company officer to have his tax return fixed.

Denied $750 Bribe

Rourke said he had conducted an honest examination of the books and denied testimony by another witness that he received $750 in bribe money.

Later, the government said Rourke did conduct a review of the company's books and was not present when money was passed.

O'Brien resides in Albany, as does Talanker, a certified public accountant and former revenue agent.

FBI Checks Force Out Job Seekers

Removals Since May 27 Under President's Plan Not Included in Other 145,000 Let Go

Washington, Oct. 24 (AP)—The White House says 1,456 government employes have been fired or forced to resign under President Eisenhower's new security program since it went into operation May 27.

These removals from the government pay roll are apart from the separation of 145,000 other federal employes for economy reasons, Presidential Press Secretary James C. Hagerty told newsmen yesterday.

The number of security removals under the Eisenhower program compares with these figures for the old loyalty program which operated for five years under President Truman:

Five hundred sixty persons were found ineligible for employment on loyalty grounds and either not hired or fired. While FBI investigators of applicants or employes were under way, 2,748 persons either quit or withdrew their job applications. In all, the FBI made 26,236 investigations. Another 3,634 persons quit their jobs after their cases went to a loyalty review board.

Broader Grounds

Officials say the security grounds for firing, or non-employment, under the Eisenhower program are broader than the loyalty standards under the Truman program. The present directive provides for getting rid of persons classed as drunks, homosexuals, loose talkers and others considered bad security risks as well as outright subversives.

Hagerty said none of the security separations in the period covered by the report, May 27 through Sept. 30, was based on refusal to testify before congressional committees. He said all but five of those removed had been employed by previous administrations. The five had been hired pending investigation, he said.

Young Gives Figures

Philip Young, chairman of the Civil Service Commission, submitted the figures to the cabinet and National Security Council, saying they included 862 dismissals for security reasons and 593 resignations.

There were about 2,600,000 government employes when the new administration took over in January. By Aug. 31, the Civil Service Commission reported, the number was down to 2,445,200.

Drive to Detect Diabetes to Open Here Next Month

Diabetes Week will be observed in Ulster county November 15-21 under the chairmanship of Dr. Curtis P. Bight. His appointment to head this educational and case finding campaign was announced today by Dr. Jack Lehner, president of the Ulster County Medical Society, which is cooperating in a nation-wide program sponsored by the American Diabetes Association.

Aim of the campaign is to find an estimated million Americans who have diabetes but do not know they have it. For that reason the country-wide campaign is known as the Diabetes Detection Drive. Once found, medical authorities point out, the diabetic can be guided to medical care that will bring the ailment under control and enable him to live a practically normal life.

Serving on Committees

In addition to the chairman, the local Diabetes Week committee includes: Dr. John Roberts, Dr. Herbert Derman, Mrs. Fred W. Holcombe and ladies of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Ulster County Medical Society.

Diabetes is a chronic ailment characterized by inability of the body to convert sugars and starches into energy. However, modern medical methods, particularly since the discovery of insulin 32 years ago, have made it readily possible to control diabetes in most cases.

"But until the diabetic is found and his case diagnosed, these controls cannot be established," Dr. Bight observed. "That is why it is important for every one to have a simple test that will indicate whether he may have diabetes or not. And experience shows that many people have it without knowing they have it."

The druggists of the county of Ulster have declared their willingness to serve as collection centers for urine specimens. These specimens are to be analyzed for sugar, free of charge to the individual, at the Kingston City Laboratory.

Cardinal Declares No Citizens Lose Names if They Are Clear of Red Tinge

Brussels, Belgium, Oct. 24 (AP)—Francis Cardinal Spellman of New York today rebuked European critics of "McCarthyism" saying Americans would not be dissuaded from the determination to root out Communist subversion.

The New York Archbishop, in a speech prepared for a Roman Catholic group sponsoring lectures by eminent personalities, defended the procedure of congressional committees investigating communism. The Cardinal is visiting in Europe on his return to the United States after attending the dedication of the North American Pontifical College in Rome.

Cardinal's Statement

Referring to what he termed the "hysterical tone" of criticism of committee procedure, Cardinal Spellman asserted:

"No American uncontaminated by communism has lost his good name because of congressional hearings on un-American activities. However, there are individuals who have seriously compromised themselves by a flat refusal to state whether they are now or have been Communists. It is impossible for me to understand why any American should refuse to declare himself free of Communist affiliation, unless he has something to hide. * * *"

Strong Reasons

Cardinal Spellman declared there were strong reasons for the inquiries and added:

"The anguished cries and protests against 'McCarthyism' are not going to dissuade Americans from their desire to see Communists exposed and removed from positions where they can carry out their nefarious plans. If American prestige is going to suffer in Europe because of this understandable desire we have to keep our free society immune from Communist subversion, then it seems more a reflection upon European standards of honor and patriotism rather than ours * * *."

Western Senator Challenges Eisenhower On Election Promise for Farm Supports

Washington, Oct. 24 (AP)—Senator Mansfield (D.-Mont.) today challenged President Eisenhower's assertion that he never promised during the 1952 presidential campaign to support 100 per cent parity price supports for major crops.

"At Kasson, Minn., last year, the President promised at least 90 per cent parity and as soon as possible full parity," Mansfield declared. "If he now denies the import of that promise, he knows as little about the farm problem now as he did then."

Sen. George (D.-Ga.) said in a separate interview he believes farmers generally are "greatly disturbed" by price declines and "feel now that the Republicans have been in power too long."

These and other Democratic blasts came as Eisenhower summoned his 16-member Agriculture Advisory Commission to the White House and a caravan of cattlemen—some 250 strong—made its way toward Washington.

Secretary of Agriculture Benson, who spent nearly four hours in White House conferences yesterday, appealed to the caravan to halt its march. But President James G. Patton of the Farmers Union, which organized the bus procession, replied that it was too late.

Benson, emerging from his talks with Eisenhower, told newsmen the administration will evolve a program including the principle of parity—a price calculated by law to be equally fair to farmers and consumers in relation to the prices farmers must pay.

The advisory committee, named in July, had been meeting behind closed doors in Washington for two days before being called to the White House to report on its progress. The idea behind the conference is to put together a new farm program for presentation to Congress next January.

Benson said after luncheon with the President yesterday:

"We are not planning to wreck the present program. We are going to have some recommendations for improvements in the present program."

He added, however, that "we are not going to pull out anything entirely new."

Benson declined to discuss any details, on the ground that it was too early.

The farmers union, in rejecting Benson's plea to call off the cattlemen coming to see him, issued an accompanying statement accusing the secretary of hemming and hawing, quibbling and procrasti-

Writer Asks More Wages in Prisons

Guards Are Victims of Low Pay, Long Hours; Says Labor Policy Poor

Charging that "prison guards are themselves prisoners—of low wages, long hours, inadequate working conditions and unrealistic personnel programs," Victor Riesel, nationally syndicated columnist, last night called for an overhauling of the labor policy in state penal institutions.

Speaking at a meeting of Sing Sing Correction Officers Local 1413, American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employes, AFL, held at Moose Hall, Ossining, the labor writer assailed those who criticize prison guards for taking outside employment, after their tours of duty.

"No one likes to work on two or three jobs," he said. "But instead of abusing guards for trying to make enough to keep their families in decent American conditions and surroundings, let those who think it wrong spend more time on the problem of how to pay decent salaries to the men entrusted with the care of the state's convicts."

Proof of Sound Union

Riesel, whose labor column appears in 182 daily newspapers across the country, pointed to the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employes as "living proof that workers can run decent trade unions free of subversives and free of racketeers."

The American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employes, AFL, is currently in the

New York, Oct. 24 (AP) — A Yonkers civic leader is under police guard today after reporting a death threat if he didn't "lay off the Yonkers Raceway."

The target of the threat, via an anonymous telephone call, was William T. Cox, head of a civic association which twice has complained to Gov. Thomas E. Dewey that the track draws "thugs, degenerates and other unsavory characters" to the neighborhood.

Cox said he got the call Thursday night before he left for a meeting of the Kimball Avenue Civic Association.

Cox said the caller warned him: "Lay off the Yonkers Raceway if you don't you'll find your body in the gutter."

A call to police that same night, Cox said, resulted in no protective measures, with an officer in charge saying the message might have been the work of a crank.

Meanwhile, Cox resigned as head of the civic group on the insistence of his wife.

Four Former Tax Agents Convicted In Defraud Scheme

Fifth Man Is Acquitted of Charges; Others Will Be Sentenced Next Thursday

New York, Oct. 24 (AP)—Four former income tax agents in New York state were convicted last night of taking part in a tax-fixing ring to shakedown taxpayers. A fifth was acquitted.

Found guilty by a Federal Court jury were Maurice F. O'Brien, 56, former head of the Internal Revenue at Troy, and three of his assistants: Murray Talanker, 45, David Witt, 56, and Abraham Inkles, 34.

Acquitted was Edwin F. Rourke, 32.

The government had presented evidence to show that 17 taxpayers in the Albany area paid approximately $35,000 for the fixing of fradulent returns.

Jury Out Four Hours

The verdict against the four was returned after the jury deliberated four hours. The conviction carried possible penalties of three years in prison and $5,000 fines each.

Judge Henry W. Goddard set next Thursday for sentencing.

Goddard continued O'Brien and Talanker in $$5,000 bail and Witt and Inkeles in $2,000 bond.

The trial grew out of an alleged tax-fixing scheme during during the period from December, 1946, to August, 1952.

The prosecution specifically charged the five with conspiracy to defraud the government by depriving the United States of honest service as revenue agents.

During the trial Rourke, of Albany, had been named in only one case—involving the Acme Glove Corp., of Gloversville. In this case, the government charged, Rourke received a "cut" of $3,000 in cash paid by a company officer to have his tax return fixed.

Denied $750 Bribe

Rourke said he had conducted an honest examination of the books and denied testimony by another witness that he received $750 in bribe money.

Later, the government said Rourke did conduct a review of the company's books and was not present when money was passed.

O'Brien resides in Albany, as does Talanker, a certified public accountant and former revenue agent.

Communism Hearings Backed by Spellman

Drive to Detect Diabetes to Open Here Next Month

Diabetes Week will be observed in Ulster county November 15-21 under the chairmanship of Dr. Curtis P. Bight. His appointment to head this educational and case finding campaign was announced today by Dr. Jack Lehner, president of the Ulster County Medical Society, which is cooperating in a nation-wide program sponsored by the American Diabetes Association.

Aim of the campaign is to find an estimated million Americans who have diabetes but do not know they have it. For that reason the country-wide campaign is known as the Diabetes Detection Drive. Once found, medical authorities point out, the diabetic can be guided to medical care that will bring the ailment under control and enable him to live a practically normal life.

Serving on Committees

In addition to the chairman, the local Diabetes Week committee includes: Dr. John Roberts, Dr. Herbert Derman, Mrs. Fred W. Holcombe and ladies of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Ulster County Medical Society.

Diabetes is a chronic ailment characterized by inability of the body to convert sugars and starches into energy. However, modern medical methods, particularly since the discovery of insulin 32 years ago, have made it readily possible to control diabetes in most cases.

"But until the diabetic is found and his case diagnosed, these controls cannot be established," Dr. Bight observed. "That is why it is important for every one to have a simple test that will indicate whether he may have diabetes or not. And experience shows that many people have it without knowing they have it."

The druggists of the county of Ulster have declared their willingness to serve as collection centers for urine specimens. These specimens are to be analyzed for sugar, free of charge to the individual, at the Kingston City Laboratory.

Cardinal Declares No Citizens Lose Names if They Are Clear of Red Tinge

Brussels, Belgium, Oct. 24 (AP)—Francis Cardinal Spellman of New York today rebuked European critics of "McCarthyism" saying Americans would not be dissuaded from the determination to root out Communist subversion.

The New York Archbishop, in a speech prepared for a Roman Catholic group sponsoring lectures by eminent personalities, defended the procedure of congressional committees investigating communism. The Cardinal is visiting in Europe on his return to the United States after attending the dedication of the North American Pontifical College in Rome.

Cardinal's Statement

Referring to what he termed the "hysterical tone" of criticism of committee procedure, Cardinal Spellman asserted:

"No American uncontaminated by communism has lost his good name because of congressional hearings on un-American activities. However, there are individuals who have seriously compromised themselves by a flat refusal to state whether they are now or have been Communists. It is impossible for me to understand why any American should refuse to declare himself free of Communist affiliation, unless he has something to hide. * * *"

Strong Reasons

Cardinal Spellman declared there were strong reasons for the inquiries and added:

"The anguished cries and protests against 'McCarthyism' are not going to dissuade Americans from their desire to see Communists exposed and removed from positions where they can carry out their nefarious plans. If American prestige is going to suffer in Europe because of this understandable desire we have to keep our free society immune from Communist subversion, then it seems more a reflection upon European standards of honor and patriotism rather than ours * * *."

FBI Checks Force Out Job Seekers

Removals Since May 27 Under President's Plan Not Included in Other 145,000 Let Go

Washington, Oct. 24 (AP)—The White House says 1,456 government employes have been fired or forced to resign under President Eisenhower's new security program since it went into operation May 27.

These removals from the government pay roll are apart from the separation of 145,000 other federal employes for economy reasons, Presidential Press Secretary James C. Hagerty told newsmen yesterday.

The number of security removals under the Eisenhower program compares with these figures for the old loyalty program which operated for five years under President Truman:

Five hundred sixty persons were found ineligible for employment on loyalty grounds and either not hired or fired. While FBI investigators of applicants or employes were under way, 2,748 persons either quit or withdrew their job applications. In all, the FBI made 26,236 investigations. Another 3,634 persons quit their jobs after their cases went to a loyalty review board.

Broader Grounds

Officials say the security grounds for firing, or non-employment, under the Eisenhower program are broader than the loyalty standards under the Truman program. The present directive provides for getting rid of persons classed as drunks, homosexuals, loose talkers and others considered bad security risks as well as outright subversives.

Hagerty said none of the security separations in the period covered by the report, May 27 through Sept. 30, was based on refusal to testify before congressional committees. He said all but five of those removed had been employed by previous administrations. The five had been hired pending investigation, he said.

Young Gives Figures

Philip Young, chairman of the Civil Service Commission, submitted the figures to the cabinet and National Security Council, saying they included 862 dismissals for security reasons and 593 resignations.

There were about 2,600,000 government employes when the new administration took over in January. By Aug. 31, the Civil Service Commission reported, the number was down to 2,445,200.

Writer Asks More Wages in Prisons

Guards Are Victims of Low Pay, Long Hours; Says Labor Policy Poor

Charging that "prison guards are themselves prisoners—of low wages, long hours, inadequate working conditions and unrealistic personnel programs," Victor Riesel, nationally syndicated columnist, last night called for an overhauling of the labor policy in state penal institutions.

Speaking at a meeting of Sing Sing Correction Officers Local 1413, American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employes, AFL, held at Moose Hall, Ossining, the labor writer assailed those who criticize prison guards for taking outside employment, after their tours of duty.

"No one likes to work on two or three jobs," he said. "But instead of abusing guards for trying to make enough to keep their families in decent American conditions and surroundings, let those who think it wrong spend more time on the problem of how to pay decent salaries to the men entrusted with the care of the state's convicts."

Proof of Sound Union

Riesel, whose labor column appears in 182 daily newspapers across the country, pointed to the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employes as "living proof that workers can run decent trade unions free of subversives and free of racketeers."

The American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employes, AFL, is currently in the

Western Senator Challenges Eisenhower On Election Promise for Farm Supports

Washington, Oct. 24 (AP)—Senator Mansfield (D.-Mont.) today challenged President Eisenhower's assertion that he never promised during the 1952 presidential campaign to support 100 per cent parity price supports for major crops.

"At Kasson, Minn., last year, the President promised at least 90 per cent parity and as soon as possible full parity," Mansfield declared. "If he now denies the import of that promise, he knows as little about the farm problem now as he did then."

Sen. George (D.-Ga.) said in a separate interview he believes farmers generally are "greatly disturbed" by price declines and "feel now that the Republicans have been in power too long."

These and other Democratic blasts came as Eisenhower summoned his 16-member Agriculture Advisory Commission to the White House and a caravan of cattlemen—some 250 strong—made its way toward Washington.

Secretary of Agriculture Benson, who spent nearly four hours in White House conferences yesterday, appealed to the caravan to halt its march. But President James G. Patton of the Farmers Union, which organized the bus procession, replied that it was too late.

Benson, emerging from his talks with Eisenhower, told newsmen the administration will evolve a program including the principle of parity—a price calculated by law to be equally fair to farmers and consumers in relation to the prices farmers must pay.

The advisory committee, named in July, had been meeting behind closed doors in Washington for two days before being called to the White House to report on its progress. The idea behind the conference is to put together a new farm program for presentation to Congress next January.

Benson said after luncheon with the President yesterday:

"We are not planning to wreck the present program. We are going to have some recommendations for improvements in the present program."

He added, however, that "we are not going to pull out anything entirely new."

Benson declined to discuss any details, on the ground that it was too early.

The farmers union, in rejecting Benson's plea to call off the cattlemen coming to see him, issued an accompanying statement accusing the secretary of hemming and hawing, quibbling and procrasti-

Methodists Will Launch Area Evangelistic Mission Nov. 6

The United Evangelistic Mission, slated to start in this vicinity Nov. 6, is the first concerted world-wide crusade in the history of the Methodist Church.

The 1,300 Methodist Churches of the New York area are part of a united effort to gain 250,000 new members for the church. The United Evangelistic Mission was authorized in 1952 by the General Conference, chief law and policy making body of the Methodist Church, and is timed to coincide with the 250th anniversary of the birth of John Wesley, founder of Methodism.

The Rev. Dr. Allen E. Claxton, pastor of the Broadway Temple-Washington Heights Methodist Church, is general chairman for the New York area. Bishop Frederick B. Newell, bishop of the New York area, which includes parts of New York, Connecticut, Massachusetts, Vermont and Pennsylvania, has announced that 5,536 persons were won to the church in the first three days in sections where the Mission is already in progress.

Visitations Planned

In Kingston and surrounding communities, preaching services will be held in every Methodist Church, beginning Sunday, Nov. 8 and continuing each weekday night through Friday, Nov. 13. During that same time, a program of visitation evangelism will be carried on each night by teams of laymen from each church. A guest minister will be present in each church to conduct the evening services and to instruct the teams of visitors.

During the Mission, each participating church will attempt to win a number of persons equal to 10 per cent of its present membership. The present membership of churches in the New York area is 350,000, which means that 35,000 new members is the goal of the Mission.

The Mission will begin officially with a District-wide Youth Rally in the Catskill Methodist Church, and with similar rallies for youth in other districts. The close of the Mission will be marked by Victory Mass Meetings Sunday, Nov. 15, at strategic points throughout the area. The mass meeting, which includes the churches of Kingston and vicinity, will be held in Memorial Methodist Church of White Plains at 4 p. m. with the Rev. Dr. Harold E. Case, president of Boston University, as the principal speaker.

Problem Drinker Should Be Approached With Kindness

Because alcoholism is officially recognized as the nation's fourth major public health problem, and since its effects on the victims, families, and communities are so widespread and serious, The Freeman presents an educational series on this disrupting affliction as a community public health service. This is the fourth article in the series to be run weekly.

This series is not a temperance crusade, nor is it any attempt to invade anyone's private life, it is simply a factual, unbiased attempt to present the truth as known on this grave medical and social problem which merits the attention and understanding of everyone—non-drinkers as well as drinkers.

Prevention begins with understanding. Perhaps you can help someone in need of help.

By AN ALCOHOLIC

Whenever it is noted that a drinker is gradually losing control over alcohol, it is best to suspect the threat of alcoholism. One should never wait until the drinker is entrapped before trying to impress him with the need to do something corrective about it. When the compulsion to drink sets in, few, if any, drinkers will be able to appreciate their danger. Compulsion destroys understanding, shielding or trying to cover up a potential alcoholic is a costly, futile practice.

A problem drinker should be approached by someone willing and able to provide the intelligent guidance necessary. Usually, someone outside of the immediate family circle will have more influence. The average family strains its relationship with the drinker by resorting to pleas, threats and promises—all to little avail. Pitting his love for the family against his love for the bottle will prove disheartening and disappointing, yet it is done time and time again. The drinker views these emotional appeals as interference or nagging, and ordinarily responds with more drinking instead of less.

Approach With Kindness

A member of Alcoholics Anonymous, an understanding, down-to-earth clergyman, an interested physician, a friendly employer, or a close friend may be able to spark the drinker's concern as to his serious condition and need for assistance. Any approach to a problem drinker must be made with kindness, sincerity and understanding, but never without firmness. Pampering the victim has no place in any program of help. The alcoholic, or one so threatened, undoubtedly has thrived on the generosity of others for all too long, and he has no inclination to change his selfish designs for living—as long as he can get away with it.

No one should expect a miracle at the outset of any treatment program. It would be foolish to think or expect that the rebuilding of the alcoholic's character (and this must be done), which has been developing badly for years, can be accomplished in a week, six weeks, or even six months. Recovery for the alcoholic is a slow undertaking and there are no short cuts.

The drinker must be convinced that he cannot recover alone. He must be shown that he has a serious drinking problem, or that he is in danger of soon having one, and must, therefore, do something about it. A person who blindly and arrogantly insists that he can handle the situation himself, that he can "take it or leave it alone," in spite of the ugly drinking history to the contrary, is admittedly in a very bad way. Such a person's recovery will greatly depend on some measure of effective pressure being directed at him to expose him to essential treatment.

The alcoholic is an extremely selfish person. If the main purpose is to expose him to treatment, then we can be permitted to play upon his selfishness to gain the desired objective. If the victim were to be faced with an "either-or-else" choice carrying with it some kind of undesirable penalty or loss were he not to try a suggested treatment, he might agree. However, his willingness might be entirely without sincerity. To avoid the penalty might well be his sole objective. However, there are countless cases on record where such empty or phony intentions to seek recovery have blossomed into sincere, determined efforts to change the disordered way of living in alcoholic confusion, once introduced to a sound treatment program.

The alcoholic is a die-hard at heart, especially where alcohol is the issue. The effective treatment of alcoholism is, of course, the treatment of that which causes it. With the alcoholic, it means the treatment of his inflated ego. He must discover humility, and for him it means a complete surrender of self. The victim's will, as we have said, is a damaged one, and as long as he insists on using it, damage can only result. Without complete surrender and open-mindedness at the outset, there can be little effective help rendered him.

The victim's physical condition should be restored to par as soon as possible. Following a prolonged drinking siege, the drinker should be given medical attention. It might be advisable and perhaps neecssary, to hospitalize him for a few days to speed physical recovery.

It is very important to convince the patient, calmly and clearly, that recovery can be realized and that it is worthwhile. The history of thousands of other alcoholics who have recovered from equally serious or worse drinking addiction is the proof that it can be done and is worth doing.

A Helping Formula

Here's a helping formula:

Never shield anyone with a drinking problem. Do something constructive about it promptly. Seek advice from someone who understands the problem,—such as a member of Alcoholics Anonymous.

Consult understanding physician whenever possible.

Convince victims that they are suffering from an illness requiring help.

Encourage patient to read some reliable material on alcoholism, (Book, "Alcoholics Anonymous," is highly informing, interesting and helpful.)

Help patient to find new hobbies, interests and non-drinking companions.

Convince alcoholic that he will never be able to use alcohol moderately. Once an alcoholic, always an alcoholic.

The alcoholic feels that he is alone against the world. Prove to him with understanding and kindness that he is wrong. His loneliness is his vulnerable defense.

Pleasant Weather Promised for East

(By The Associated Press)

Cloudy, cool and wet weather prevailed over wide areas from the Rockies to the Appalachians today.

Fairly pleasant and mild weather appeared in prospect for most of the east coast, the southeastern states and along the Pacific coast.

Heaviest rainfall continued in southern Texas with a wet belt extending from the Texas Gulf coast northwestward to southern Idaho. There also were light showers in the eastern sections of the Great Lakes region and parts of New England.

Snow which hit the Rocky mountain region diminished today and was confined mostly to the central Rockies. An estimated 200 big game hunters were snow bound in northern Wyoming's Big Horn mountains but forest service and law enforcement officials sought to rescue them.

Drouth-stricken areas of Texas were hit by heavy rains again yesterday with more than four inches at Austin; two inches at Corpus Christi and more than an inch in several parts of the state.

Co-Pilot Hurt in C47 Crash

Colorado Springs, Colo., Oct. 24 (AP)—A C47 Air Defense Command plane with seven aboard crashed yesterday afternoon in eastern Colorado, but only one man was hurt seriously enough to be hospitalized. The plane, based at Air Defense Command Headquarters at Mitchel Field, L. I., crashed northeast of Limon about an hour after taking off from Peterson Field here. It was en route to Chanute Field, Ill. Col. H. H. Van Auken, co-pilot, suffered scalp lacerations and back injuries. His condition is listed as serious but not critical at the Camp Carson Hospital. The others escaped with minor cuts and bruises.

Methodists Will Launch Area Evangelistic Mission Nov. 6

The United Evangelistic Mission, slated to start in this vicinity Nov. 6, is the first concerted world-wide crusade in the history of the Methodist Church.

The 1,300 Methodist Churches of the New York area are part of a united effort to gain 250,000 new members for the church. The United Evangelistic Mission was authorized in 1952 by the General Conference, chief law and policy making body of the Methodist Church, and is timed to coincide with the 250th anniversary of the birth of John Wesley, founder of Methodism.

The Rev. Dr. Allen E. Claxton, pastor of the Broadway Temple-Washington Heights Methodist Church, is general chairman for the New York area. Bishop Frederick B. Newell, bishop of the New York area, which includes parts of New York, Connecticut, Massachusetts, Vermont and Pennsylvania, has announced that 5,536 persons were won to the church in the first three days in sections where the Mission is already in progress.

Visitations Planned

In Kingston and surrounding communities, preaching services will be held in every Methodist Church, beginning Sunday, Nov. 8 and continuing each weekday night through Friday, Nov. 13. During that same time, a program of visitation evangelism will be carried on each night by teams of laymen from each church. A guest minister will be present in each church to conduct the evening services and to instruct the teams of visitors.

During the Mission, each participating church will attempt to win a number of persons equal to 10 per cent of its present membership. The present membership of churches in the New York area is 350,000, which means that 35,000 new members is the goal of the Mission.

The Mission will begin officially with a District-wide Youth Rally in the Catskill Methodist Church, and with similar rallies for youth in other districts. The close of the Mission will be marked by Victory Mass Meetings Sunday, Nov. 15, at strategic points throughout the area. The mass meeting, which includes the churches of Kingston and vicinity, will be held in Memorial Methodist Church of White Plains at 4 p. m. with the Rev. Dr. Harold E. Case, president of Boston University, as the principal speaker.

Problem Drinker Should Be Approached With Kindness

Because alcoholism is officially recognized as the nation's fourth major public health problem, and since its effects on the victims, families, and communities are so widespread and serious, The Freeman presents an educational series on this disrupting affliction as a community public health service. This is the fourth article in the series to be run weekly.

This series is not a temperance crusade, nor is it any attempt to invade anyone's private life, it is simply a factual, unbiased attempt to present the truth as known on this grave medical and social problem which merits the attention and understanding of everyone—non-drinkers as well as drinkers.

Prevention begins with understanding. Perhaps you can help someone in need of help.

By AN ALCOHOLIC

Whenever it is noted that a drinker is gradually losing control over alcohol, it is best to suspect the threat of alcoholism. One should never wait until the drinker is entrapped before trying to impress him with the need to do something corrective about it. When the compulsion to drink sets in, few, if any, drinkers will be able to appreciate their danger. Compulsion destroys understanding, shielding or trying to cover up a potential alcoholic is a costly, futile practice.

A problem drinker should be approached by someone willing and able to provide the intelligent guidance necessary. Usually, someone outside of the immediate family circle will have more influence. The average family strains its relationship with the drinker by resorting to pleas, threats and promises—all to little avail. Pitting his love for the family against his love for the bottle will prove disheartening and disappointing, yet it is done time and time again. The drinker views these emotional appeals as interference or nagging, and ordinarily responds with more drinking instead of less.

Approach With Kindness

A member of Alcoholics Anonymous, an understanding, down-to-earth clergyman, an interested physician, a friendly employer, or a close friend may be able to spark the drinker's concern as to his serious condition and need for assistance. Any approach to a problem drinker must be made with kindness, sincerity and understanding, but never without firmness. Pampering the victim has no place in any program of help. The alcoholic, or one so threatened, undoubtedly has thrived on the generosity of others for all too long, and he has no inclination to change his selfish designs for living—as long as he can get away with it.

No one should expect a miracle at the outset of any treatment program. It would be foolish to think or expect that the rebuilding of the alcoholic's character (and this must be done), which has been developing badly for years, can be accomplished in a week, six weeks, or even six months. Recovery for the alcoholic is a slow undertaking and there are no short cuts.

The drinker must be convinced that he cannot recover alone. He must be shown that he has a serious drinking problem, or that he is in danger of soon having one, and must, therefore, do something about it. A person who blindly and arrogantly insists that he can handle the situation himself, that he can "take it or leave it alone," in spite of the ugly drinking history to the contrary, is admittedly in a very bad way. Such a person's recovery will greatly depend on some measure of effective pressure being directed at him to expose him to essential treatment.

The alcoholic is an extremely selfish person. If the main purpose is to expose him to treatment, then we can be permitted to play upon his selfishness to gain the desired objective. If the victim were to be faced with an "either-or-else" choice carrying with it some kind of undesirable penalty or loss were he not to try a suggested treatment, he might agree. However, his willingness might be entirely without sincerity. To avoid the penalty might well be his sole objective. However, there are countless cases on record where such empty or phony intentions to seek recovery have blossomed into sincere, determined efforts to change the disordered way of living in alcoholic confusion, once introduced to a sound treatment program.

The alcoholic is a die-hard at heart, especially where alcohol is the issue. The effective treatment of alcoholism is, of course, the treatment of that which causes it. With the alcoholic, it means the treatment of his inflated ego. He must discover humility, and for him it means a complete surrender of self. The victim's will, as we have said, is a damaged one, and as long as he insists on using it, damage can only result. Without complete surrender and open-mindedness at the outset, there can be little effective help rendered him.

The victim's physical condition should be restored to par as soon as possible. Following a prolonged drinking siege, the drinker should be given medical attention. It might be advisable and perhaps neecssary, to hospitalize him for a few days to speed physical recovery.

It is very important to convince the patient, calmly and clearly, that recovery can be realized and that it is worthwhile. The history of thousands of other alcoholics who have recovered from equally serious or worse drinking addiction is the proof that it can be done and is worth doing.

A Helping Formula

Here's a helping formula:

Never shield anyone with a drinking problem. Do something constructive about it promptly. Seek advice from someone who understands the problem,—such as a member of Alcoholics Anonymous.

Consult understanding physician whenever possible.

Convince victims that they are suffering from an illness requiring help.

Encourage patient to read some reliable material on alcoholism, (Book, "Alcoholics Anonymous," is highly informing, interesting and helpful.)

Help patient to find new hobbies, interests and non-drinking companions.

Convince alcoholic that he will never be able to use alcohol moderately. Once an alcoholic, always an alcoholic.

The alcoholic feels that he is alone against the world. Prove to him with understanding and kindness that he is wrong. His loneliness is his vulnerable defense.

Pleasant Weather Promised for East

(By The Associated Press)

Cloudy, cool and wet weather prevailed over wide areas from the Rockies to the Appalachians today.

Fairly pleasant and mild weather appeared in prospect for most of the east coast, the southeastern states and along the Pacific coast.

Heaviest rainfall continued in southern Texas with a wet belt extending from the Texas Gulf coast northwestward to southern Idaho. There also were light showers in the eastern sections of the Great Lakes region and parts of New England.

Snow which hit the Rocky mountain region diminished today and was confined mostly to the central Rockies. An estimated 200 big game hunters were snow bound in northern Wyoming's Big Horn mountains but forest service and law enforcement officials sought to rescue them.

Drouth-stricken areas of Texas were hit by heavy rains again yesterday with more than four inches at Austin; two inches at Corpus Christi and more than an inch in several parts of the state.

'Larger Living' In Fewer Rooms Is Trend Today

A lot of rooms don't necessarily make a livable home.

The Tile Council of America notes that houses have become smaller, but that there is "larger living in fewer rooms." The typical American home, ten years ago, averaged 1180 square feet. Today it measures approximately 980 square feet. The secret of more living in small floor plans is the "open layout" which merges rooms and eliminates partitions.

Analysis of new designs for the smaller home with greater livability also discloses the following trends:

Combining dining room, study and halls with other rooms.

Houses are being cleverly located on land sites, with hedges, trees and fences assuring privacy so the family can use outdoor space for living. Terraces and patios rate high.

Increasing use of easily washed materials, such as clay tile, everywhere in the house, especially the kitchen and bathroom. This makes the home childproof and guestproof and encourages relaxation, as well as sparing the homemaker drudgery.

Wall areas are being utilized for storage. The old-fashioned walk-in closet is beginning to disappear.

How to Treat A New Brush

To prepare a new paint brush for use, first twirl the handle between your palms to remove any loose bristle. If it is a brush made with animal bristle, suspend it in linseed oil for at last 12 hours before using. This facilitates the cleaning of the brush afterwards. To remove the oil, press a wooden stick heavily across the bristle, starting with the ferrule and working to the tip. Any additional oil can be removed by twirling the brush in a container. The container keeps it from spattering. Finally, straighten the bristle with a regular paint brush comb which is obtainable at your paint dealers'. When you start to paint, remember that it's wise to refrain from dipping more than one-third of the bristle into the paint. Deeper dipping wastes paint and harms the brush.

It Doesn't Take Long

An existing house of average size can be insulated within three days by blowing mineral wool into the walls and above the top-floor ceiling.

ON THE COB — This feline gourmet wouldn't trade one of his whiskers for cat food, but you better not pass him up when corn on the cob is on the menu. With some aid from his mistress, Mrs. Frederick Woltman, of New York, the Siamese cat gnaws the cob clean and meows for seconds.

Moisture Destructive

Uncontrolled moisture is one of the householder's greatest enemies. Water vapor encourages so-called dry rot, mold, warping. It can cause discoloration of walls inside the house and many other damaging conditions to plague the owner. Adequate ventilation at all times is of the greatest importance.

Kin of Snapdragon

The yellow wildflower called Butter-and-Eggs is a close relative to the snapdragon of cultivated gardens.

Beauty Selection

Draper, Utah (AP)—Lou Dunyon has found a painless method for picking a beauty queen. In a celebration here, Dunyon had two sections of Draper each elect six girls to compete for Draper's queen title. Each sextet was then asked to do its own judging to pick a semifinalist. Then the remaining pair drew straws.

Water-Pipe Noises May Be a Cause Of Serious Leaks

Water hammer — the banging noise you hear when water is turned off too suddenly, as with a spring-activated faucet — can be dangerous as well as annoying.

It is caused by the sudden stoppage of the flow, creating a terrific impact in the pipes, sending energy waves rebounding through the water at high velocity. This makes the pipes vibrate, loosens pipe supports, strains the pipes and causes leaks at joints or other weak points.

Water hammer in small pipes increases the pressure by as much as 55 pounds per square inch. This means that water flowing at only five feet per second can build up a pressure of 275 pounds per square inch when stopped suddenly.

A projecting pipe, tightly capped and filled with air above a household plumbing system, or commercial shock absorbers fitted with springs and cushions, will take up water hammer and its destructive force.

Wipe Up Spilled Cement

When laying linoleum or asphalt tile with cement, any cement that is accidentally smeared on the flooring should be wiped up before it hardens. Once this cement is dry, it is very difficult to remove without damage to the flooring. Look on the label of the cement container to see what the manufacurer recommends as a solvent.

Special Putty Needed

A special putty is needed for setting glass in aluminum windows. Ordinary putty is not so good for this purpose.

For Showy Flowers

If you are growing flowers or vegetables for the fall exhibitions, an occasional application of plant food will usually work wonders with them.

Keep Sump Pump Dry

Sump pumps and water pumps often become wet and should not be operated until they are bone dry. They can be dried out quickly by placing them in a warm oven—about 200 degrees F.

Containers for Bolts

Small glass jars with screw-on tops make excellent containers for bolts, nails and similar items in the home workshop.

MEMO TO ADVERTISERS

Oh, WHERE is my wandering ad tonight?

That's a fair question and deserves a factual answer. When you buy newspaper advertising you have an investment in every copy of the paper that carries your sales message because the circulation of the newspaper is also the circulation of your advertising. So, what you get in return for your advertising dollars depends on the newspaper's circulation. In order that you may buy space in this newspaper as you would make any sound business investment, we hold membership in the Audit Bureau of Circulations,* well known to advertisers and publishers as A.B.C. Only publications with paid circulation—evidence that people want the paper—are eligible for membership.

At regular intervals one of the Bureau's large staff of experienced circulation auditors comes to our office to make a thorough audit of our circulation records. The FACTS that he obtains as a result of the audit are published in A.B.C. reports which tell you: How much circulation we have; Where it goes; How obtained; How much people pay for our paper, and many other FACTS that you need in order to KNOW what you get for your advertising money.

It's never necessary for our advertisers to ask, "Oh, where is my wandering ad?" They get the FACTS from our A.B.C. report and KNOW. Ask for a copy today.

*The Audit Bureau of Circulations is a cooperative, nonprofit association of 3,450 advertisers, advertising agencies and publishers. Organized in 1914, A.B.C. established a definition for paid circulation, rules and standards for measuring circulations and methods for auditing and reporting circulation FACTS.

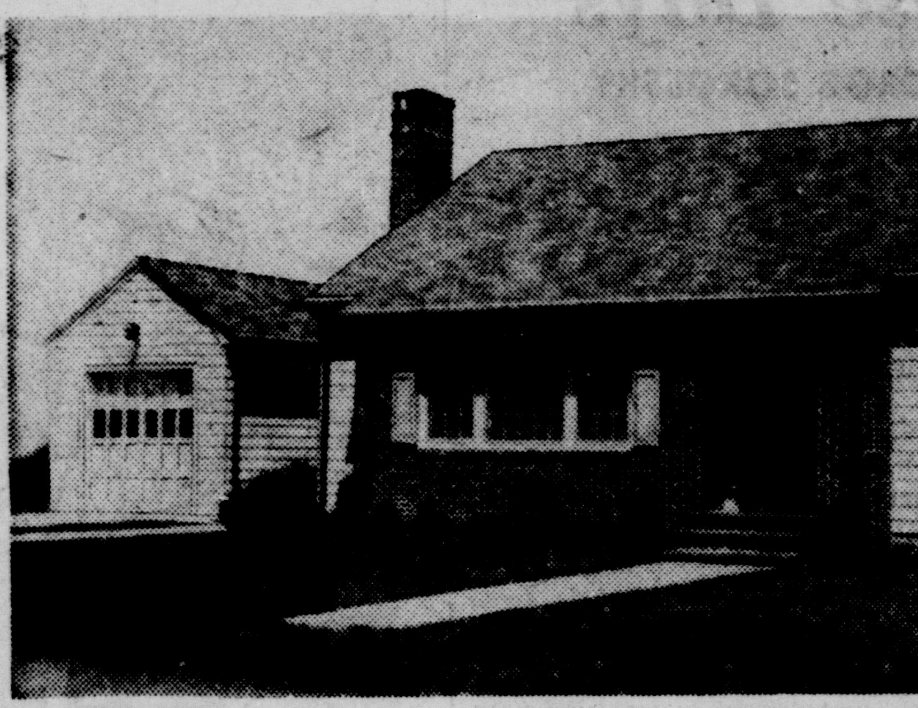
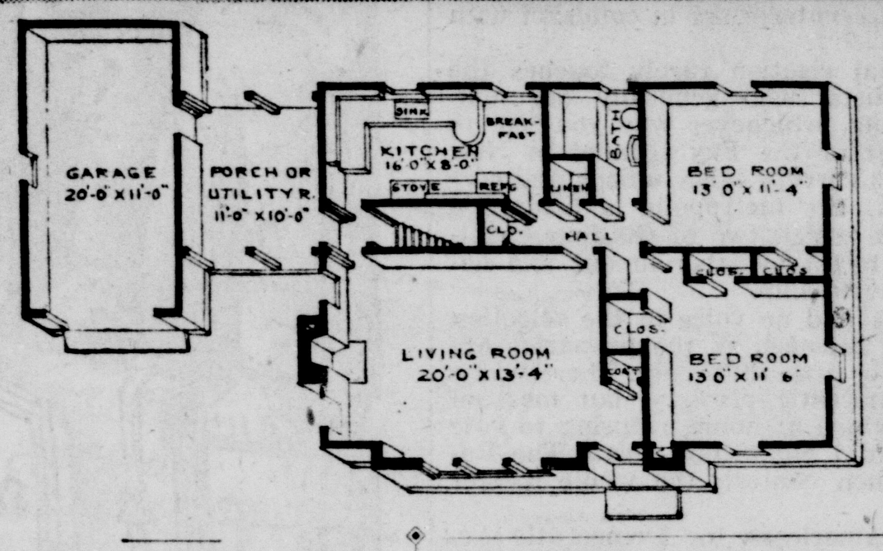
A. B. C. REPORTS — FACTS AS A BASIC MEASURE OF ADVERTISING VALUE

The SUBURBAN





A Home for Any Location

Rooms	Five
Bedrooms	Two
Closets	Six
Cubage:
House	19,500 ft.
Garage	3,600 ft.
Dimensions	37' x 26'

Although it bears the name "The Suburban," the house presented today by Home of the Week Plan Service could be built in the city, country or suburbs and it would be a cozy and attractive home.

As you can see by the illustration, "The Suburban" lends itself most charmingly to a combination finish. However, if you prefer plain masonry, shingles or clapboards you can use these finishes to give "The Suburban" a thoroughly attractive appearance and one completely in keeping with the architectural style of the house.

The house proper measures 37'x26'; you'll have to add another 20' for the garage. Cubage of the house is 19,500 feet; cubage of the garage is 3600 feet. At least an 80-foot lot would be required to build both the house and the attached garage.

There are but two bedrooms in "The Suburban," but both are spacious rooms. Each bedroom reaps the benefits of cross ventilation. The larger of the two bedrooms, and the one you'll probably use as the master bedroom, has three closets. The other bedroom has one large closet.

While there is no dining room proper in "The Suburban" there is a good sized breakfast nook in the kitchen. You can serve the majority of the family's meals in this pleasant, well-lighted area. For formal occasions you can use the living room where there is ample space for your dining room furniture.

Charming, spacious and well lighted, the living room will also be used for gatherings of family and friends. Centered in the left wall of the room the fireplace lends a cozy and decorative note to the room; plan your furniture arrangement around the fireplace and the abundance of windows in the room.

Because it's so much more convenient to have your laundry on the same level as the house proper rather than in the basement, you'll probably want to enclose the porch or utility room and have your laundry equipment installed there. Provide doors in both the front and back walls for easy access to the yard.

Then, the only required installation in the basement of "The Suburban" will be the heating equipment. This should be located under the living room. You will have an abundance of basement area to do with as you wish.

Blueprints Available

Complete plans and specifications for this house and all other "Home of the Week" designs are available at moderate cost. For plan prices, write to the Building Editor, Dept. 24, Kingston Daily Freeman and enclose a self addressed. 3c stamped envelope. Allow 7 to 10 days for a reply.

Lift the Plane

When planing wood, don't draw the plane back with the blade in contact with the wood. This dulls the cutting edge in nothing flat. Lift the plane up just a hair on the return stroke.

Healthier Lawn

When lawn grass is allowed to grow longer than the usual ¾ to one inch length, growth of the root system is stimulated. The more vigorous the roots, the healthier the lawn.

Color Often Needed In the Entrance Hall

Because the entrance hall is primarily a passageway between the front door and the interior of the house, some homemakers thoughtlessly slight its furnishings and decoration.

Interior designers regard this as a mistake.

A visitor gets his initial impression of the house from the hallway. It should be inviting and cheerful rather than impersonal and drab.

If there is plenty of light in the hall, rich deep-tone colors like olive gray, spruce green or driftwood brown may be used to give drama. If the hall tends to be dark, light airy tints of subtle neutral colors are best—such delicate variations of hue as silvery gray-green, rose-beige or oyster white.

To add decorative variety to a hall, two or more contrasting or harmonizing colors may be used.

Hall colors should be integrated with colors of adjoining rooms. If the hall opens directly into the living-room, the same colors should be used in both areas to unify the two.

'Losing' a Dormer

If the dormers on your house are not in pleasing proportion to the rest of the house, color can help you. Dormers that stick out too much — or not enough — can be "lost" by painting them the same color as the roof.

'Pickling' Pine

A pickled pine finish can be obtained by using a coat of gray stain and rubbing the surface, when it is dry, with a soft rag dipped in a little white paint. A varnish or shellac coat may then be used to protect the finish.

Don't Spray Hot Ashes

It's not a good idea to spray water on hot ashes in the furnace ash pit because the steam that results is bad for the grates. Either wait until the ashes are cool or pull them out and then spray them.

Plastic Shades

Window shades made of vinyl are washable and cannot be pulled easily out of shape. They are made to simulate shantung available in white, eggshell, green and surf-tan, and are said to be non-inflammable and fire-resistant.

Junior's Room Now Comfort-Planned

Time was when Junior and Sis lived like a couple of Junior monks —in bleak little rooms furnished wih hard beds or rickety cots and dreary looking chests of drawers.

Today sleeping quarters of young ones are organized for comfort, fun and durability. Beds and mattresses are selected with care to give proper support to growing bodies. Storage cabinets and shelves keep clothes tucked away and playthings handy and out from under feet. Washable furnishings — fabrics, floor coverings and furniture—permit more freedom for Junior and less work for Mom.

Bunk-bed arrangements in small rooms give each youngster privacy and save floor space, offering more room for play. Fabric or storage cabinet dividers can separate older children from baby, permitting a different decorative theme in baby's corner.

Color can do much to cheer children. A recent survey showed that children of school age prefer blue over red with yellow running third in favor and green preferred over white. As children develop, their preferences are likely to veer toward more subdued colors, tests reveal.

Basement Exit to Yard

Access to the cellar from outside the house is particularly desirable, since so many basements are used for recreation rooms and living quarters. Safety demands a second exit in case of fire. Stairs leading directly to the yard also eliminate the necessity of carrying tool, ashes and rubbish through the house. Steps and bulkheads, which can be installed at small expense, will soon prove well worth the cost.

Clean Crevices

When preparing the exterior of a structure for painting, it is important to clean out crevices and cracks around windows, door frames and chimneys with a knife followed by a stiff whisk broom.

Don't Mix Too Much

When a masonry job is in progress around the house, it's advisable not to mix more cement mortar at a time than can be used in half an hour. Otherwise it may start to set before it can be used.

While there is no dining room proper in "The Suburban" there is a good sized breakfast nook in the kitchen. You can serve the majority of the family's meals in this pleasant, well-lighted area. For formal occasions you can use the living room where there is ample space for your dining room furniture.

Charming, spacious and well lighted, the living room will also be used for gatherings of family and friends. Centered in the left wall of the room the fireplace lends a cozy and decorative note to the room; plan your furniture arrangement around the fireplace and the abundance of windows in the room.

Because it's so much more convenient to have your laundry on the same level as the house proper rather than in the basement, you'll probably want to enclose the porch or utility room and have your laundry equipment installed there. Provide doors in both the front and back walls for easy access to the yard.

Then, the only required installation in the basement of "The Suburban" will be the heating equipment. This should be located under the living room. You will have an abundance of basement area to do with as you wish.

Lift the Plane

When planing wood, don't draw the plane back with the blade in contact with the wood. This dulls the cutting edge in nothing flat. Lift the plane up just a hair on the return stroke.

Healthier Lawn

When lawn grass is allowed to grow longer than the usual ¾ to one inch length, growth of the root system is stimulated. The more vigorous the roots, the healthier the lawn.

Color Often Needed In the Entrance Hall

Because the entrance hall is primarily a passageway between the front door and the interior of the house, some homemakers thoughtlessly slight its furnishings and decoration.

Interior designers regard this as a mistake.

A visitor gets his initial impression of the house from the hallway. It should be inviting and cheerful rather than impersonal and drab.

If there is plenty of light in the hall, rich deep-tone colors like olive gray, spruce green or driftwood brown may be used to give drama. If the hall tends to be dark, light airy tints of subtle neutral colors are best—such delicate variations of hue as silvery gray-green, rose-beige or oyster white.

To add decorative variety to a hall, two or more contrasting or harmonizing colors may be used.

Hall colors should be integrated with colors of adjoining rooms. If the hall opens directly into the living-room, the same colors should be used in both areas to unify the two.

'Losing' a Dormer

If the dormers on your house are not in pleasing proportion to the rest of the house, color can help you. Dormers that stick out too much — or not enough — can be "lost" by painting them the same color as the roof.

'Pickling' Pine

A pickled pine finish can be obtained by using a coat of gray stain and rubbing the surface, when it is dry, with a soft rag dipped in a little white paint. A varnish or shellac coat may then be used to protect the finish.

Don't Spray Hot Ashes

It's not a good idea to spray water on hot ashes in the furnace ash pit because the steam that results is bad for the grates. Either wait until the ashes are cool or pull them out and then spray them.

Plastic Shades

Window shades made of vinyl are washable and cannot be pulled easily out of shape. They are made to simulate shantung available in white, eggshell, green and surf-tan, and are said to be non-inflammable and fire-resistant.

Junior's Room Now Comfort-Planned

Time was when Junior and Sis lived like a couple of Junior monks—in bleak little rooms furnished wih hard beds or rickety cots and dreary looking chests of drawers.

Today sleeping quarters of young ones are organized for comfort, fun and durability. Beds and mattresses are selected with care to give proper support to growing bodies. Storage cabinets and shelves keep clothes tucked away and playthings handy and out from under feet. Washable furnishings — fabrics, floor coverings and furniture—permit more freedom for Junior and less work for Mom.

Bunk-bed arrangements in small rooms give each youngster privacy and save floor space, offering more room for play. Fabric or storage cabinet dividers can separate older children from baby, permitting a different decorative theme in baby's corner.

Color can do much to cheer children. A recent survey showed that children of school age prefer blue over red with yellow running third in favor and green preferred over white. As children develop, their preferences are likely to veer toward more subdued colors, tests reveal.

Basement Exit to Yard

Access to the cellar from outside the house is particularly desirable, since so many basements are used for recreation rooms and living quarters. Safety demands a second exit in case of fire. Stairs leading directly to the yard also eliminate the necessity of carrying tool, ashes and rubbish through the house. Steps and bulkheads, which can be installed at small expense, will soon prove well worth the cost.

Clean Crevices

When preparing the exterior of a structure for painting, it is important to clean out crevices and cracks around windows, door frames and chimneys with a knife followed by a stiff whisk broom.

Don't Mix Too Much

When a masonry job is in progress around the house, it's advisable not to mix more cement mortar at a time than can be used in half an hour. Otherwise it may start to set before it can be used.

TAX CUTS INDICATE DEFICIT

These are the days when the administration is wrestling with the great issue of how to avoid dangerous cuts in defense spending while still making good on political promises to slash taxes and balance the federal budget.

According to at least one Washington correspondent, the first decision in this ticklish field has now been made. That is not to allow the scheduled automatic reduction April 1 of five per cent in corporate income taxes, and of varying percentages in a sizable list of excise levies, such as those on liquor, tobacco, automobiles, and gas.

Were those cuts to take place, it might cost the administration $3 billion in revenue annually. And that loss would come on top of the expected $5 billion drop in consequence of the January 1 elimination of the excess profits tax and 10 per cent reduction in personal income levies.

So President Eisenhower's budget specialists have determined that the April 1 cuts must be blocked. Otherwise, they would have to give up all hope of balancing the budget during the next fiscal year, and perhaps even the year after that. For it is unlikely that sufficient defense savings could be made to close this huge gap without really endangering national security.

This does not mean, of course, that no excise tax reductions will take effect in the coming year. Mr. Eisenhower has promised to do something in 1954 about the movie tax, after having vetoed a bill to wipe it out this spring. Relief from excises seems indicated in other fields, where levies imposed in war emergency now tend to be discriminatory.

But here again, Ike's budget experts are firm in their view that changes in these fields should not produce a net loss of revenue to the Treasury. In other words, if Congress cuts down on some of these taxes, they believe it should impose new excises elsewhere to make up the loss.

No one can be sure, of course, what the congressional reaction will be to this plan. Congress dislikes adding any kind of new tax in an election year. And there seems to be some sentiment among key tax lawmakers for letting the April 1 cuts go through no matter what the President wants.

Even if the plan is nailed down tight, however, and manages to win congressional endorsement, there still remains the question of what to do about the $5 billion loss that should follow from the January reductions.

Should the administration decide this loss cannot be partly or wholly made up by other new taxes, then it must get into the matter of determining how much defense and other spending can be trimmed off to bring the budget closer to balance. Present indications are that the President's experts will not be able to make it the whole way, and that some sort of deficit is thus likely for at least another year.

In these days of the popularity of scores of women's hair preparations it is dangerous for men to pick, for example, blondes instead of brunettes. They may change places tomorrow.

SNORKEL SERVICE

"Snorkel service" is one of the conveniences provided in a small town Kentucky bank. It is a box on the curb which has a window and a small elevator. The motorist drives up, and without leaving his car, presses a button and sends his deposit and bank book down to the teller, whom he can see through a periscope.

This bank is reported to have other unusual features. Free umbrellas are furnished customers caught in the rain. There are free dogwood trees, sunflowers and gladioli bulbs. There is even a juke box.

The one benefit in this list which has its drawbacks is the snorkel. If the idea spreads, it will never be necessary for the motorist to leave his car; and from lack of use his legs will atrophy till they no longer function. Everyone now drives two blocks, even with trouble in parking, rather than walk; but if the Kentucky idea prevails, they will have no choice but to drive, since walking will become physically impossible.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

GOVERNMENT BY CHOICE

This is a "government by choice." The Declaration of Independence proclaimed to the world that every people has a right to choose its own government. The Constitution guarantees a republican form of government for the United States and sets up a device for the election of its officers and legislators.

In municipalities, this country has not done so well. At the turn of the century, Lincoln Steffens wrote a series of articles on the corruption of our cities which attracted wide attention, but really made no difference because in the ensuing decades the grafters became more numerous; their techniques more wily; the size of the loot enormous. Such thieves as Tweed and Croker were amateurs compared with the present breed, who are not chislers but who organize enterprises in collusion with political officials.

Thus, a municipal election rarely touches the principal corruptionists, who generally are nonpartisan or bipartisan, whichever way you like to put it. In the midst of the Fay scandal in New York, which involves corrupt labor unions and corrupt public officials, the metropolis is holding a municipal election in which two of the four candidates are owned outright by labor unions and nobody questions the ownership.

The citizens have had no voice in the selection of these candidates because, as the primaries are rigged, it would make little difference. There was a contest in the Democratic primary, but most of the Democrats remained at home, refusing to vote in a contest which did not inspire them. The Republicans had no such contest, the whole matter being cut and dried.

The A. D. A. (Americans for Democratic Action) is a Fabian Socialist organization which parasitically lives on the Democratic Party. In New York State, it also directs a party, called the Liberal Party, the private possession of David Dubinsky, who heads the International Ladies Garment Workers Union, which has a treasury of more than $160,000,000, which, though honestly managed, produces enormous political power.

The A. D. A. has two candidates for Mayor, Rudolph Halley on the Liberal Party ticket and Robert Wagner, Jr., on the Democratic Party ticket, who insult each other regularly in gutter language, perhaps because it comes naturally to them. The insults mean nothing, however. The quarrel is strictly fraternal.

The incumbent Mayor, Vincent Impellitteri, is a gentleman, no matter what else is said about him, and the evidence is that he is owned neither by the gangs nor the labor leaders, which in this metropolis is at times interchangeable. His weakness has been an inability to build a political organization while he sat in the City Hall. His record of administration has been good but not demonstrative. In New York, everything must be made to appear urgent, enormous, important. Impellitteri does not have the gift of that type of articulation; Impy, as he is popularly called, is therefore out of the running.

The Republican candidate, Harold Riegelman, has long been a student of municipal affairs, particularly on the side of what happens to the people's money. He is likely to be an efficient administrator even under the complex and confused system obtaining in this great city—a system devised to stop corruption by making administration so involved that the corrupt work at it effectively.

While always a Republican, he has been more the pro bono publico citizen than the politician and has, as a lawyer, most often represented those who pay taxes and wonder what for.

Now all this might be regarded as local trivia, were it not that if either Halley or Wagner is elected, it is likely to mean that Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., will be the Democratic candidate for Governor of New York state and that he will control the 94 votes of that state at the next Democratic convention. Thus far, Junior has given evidence of no greater achievement than to have been born of a father who gained the distinction of requiring the passage of a constitutional amendment limiting the Presidency to two terms. It is not likely that the Democrats will relish Junior's national leadership, but that may be their lot and their problem if New Yorkers decide on either Wagner or Halley for Mayor.

In the campaign this has not been brought out. Thus far, the two words most used, and assumedly most enlightening, have been faker and liar. Maybe that is representative government, 1953 model!

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

TREATMENT OF HEART PATIENT

After a student has graduated in medicine, he becomes an intern in a recognized hospital and spends several months in each department of the hospital — general medicine, surgery, psychiatry, arthritis, X-ray, skin diseases, and others.

Despite all that he learns in these various departments, in order to become an all-round physician he must learn to treat the patient while he is treating the disease. In other words, he must gradually become a psychiatrist which means treating the "behavior" of patients and learning how their minds and emotions affect their behavior.

Because emotional disturbances affect the workings of all the body processes, it is only natural that they affect the heart action, and so some valuable advice is given by Dr. Douglas Bird, Professor of Psychiatry, Western Reserve School of Medicine, Cleveland, to interns about the emotional factors involved in putting the proper estimate or evaluation on coronary artery disease (coronary thrombosis).

"So many times you rush into the hospital and ask 'What has come in?' You are told, 'A coronary.' You sit down and write out the order: complete blood count, urinalysis, salt-free diet and so on and so on.

"While this is the correct treatment for coronary thrombosis, it may not be the correct treatment for this particular patient.

"In addition to writing out the medical treatment, this patient, in fact, every patient, may need some particular friendly advice about how to take care of himself in the days to come. Talk to him and see if you can get him to stay in the hospital. Because one thing you can be absolutely sure of: if you don't do this, he is going to leave the hospital. You might as well face the inevitable in such a case for you can't change the patient. Many of you know that it is not easy for some persons to sit in bed and relax just because they are ordered to do so. They stew and fret and probably do much damage to their internal organs if they are thus frustrated."

Therefore, when treating a patient who has just had a coronary attack, the thought is to find out what is on his mind, give him the assurance he needs from other cases which have entered the hospital, remained the necessary length of time for healing, and gone back to their regular work in office or factory.

Edson's Washington News Notebook

Washington — (NEA) — The Internal Revenue Service's new look at possible abuses of business expense deductions could catch a lot of people who think their past taxes are all settled. IRS agents point out that there's a three-year statute of limitations on income taxes. That means that they could re-open returns filed as far back as 1950 and hike charges if it was decided there were abuses of the business expense deduction.

Only cases which were settled in court or by some written agreement with the IRS following a controversy are closed and can't be reopened.

One of the alleged abuses which interests the service most comes in connection with persons who own small firms. It has become a practice among many small business proprietors to charge such things as the family food, cars, home appliances and entertainment off to the expense of the company. This is going to be stopped, service officials claim. And a lot of returns involving such practices will be reopened, they say.

Lively Newspaper

It could be that the ingenuity of American journalists in alerting India to a new method of rice growing may enable that country to produce all the rice she needs.

"The American Reporter," a tabloid published in India, by the U. S. Information Service, got the scoop on a new Japanese method which increases rice yields fourfold. The Indian Food Ministry reports that after the story appeared they received 11,000 requests for information.

If only 3 per cent of the current irrigated paddy area in India is cultivated by the new method, it will be the end of rice shortages in India.

The American newspaper, incidentally, boasts a circulation roughly 32 times better than that of the official Communist weekly and 10 times that of the principal pro-Communist publication.

It's to the Point

A report on one of the shortest Senate committee reports on record was told by William P. Rogers, deputy attorney general of the U. S.

Some years ago he was committee counsel for a Senate committee investigating the Maritime Commission. Without knowing it, the commission had sold some surplus ships which contained large amounts of lead ballast in the holds. In several cases the lead was more valuable than the cost of the entire ship, and the government was looking for a legal means to recover the lead.

During the course of the investigation, one of Rogers' staff men came to him and said the committee had already completed its work.

The report handed to Rogers read: "This committee recommends that the Maritime Commission get the lead out of its bottoms."

End in Sight

Settlement of the long-standing Saar dispute between Germany and France is apparently going to be necessary before France will approve the European Defense Community agreement.

Agreement would permit rearmament of Western Germany. The French government first proposed the EDC idea, but France has balked on ratification of the treaty ever since.

Earlier this year, the Germans stalled on discussing the Saar question with France because it was such a hot political issue in Germany. But with the German elections now out of the way, there is no further obstacle to seeking a solution for political and economic control of the Saar.

If this could be settled by the end of the year, French ratification of the EDC might be hoped for early in 1954.

You're Too Late

Rep. Adam Powell of New York is now called "Hot Rod" Powell as a result of his prowess as the pilot of a supercharged car he drives.

The congressman was making a routine "flight" between Washington and his Westchester, N. Y., home recently. He was roaring through New Jersey when he saw a police car on the other side of the highway make a U-turn and start after him.

Powell, who likes to cruise at 80 or thereabouts, discreetly pulled in between two large trucks and slowed down to 50 miles per hour.

As the police car caught up with him, Powell rolled down his window and yelled, "You're just a few minutes too late. You should have seen the Jaguar that just went by."

Malden-West Camp Fire Meeting Held

Malden, Oct. 22—Residents of Malden and West Camp met at a community meeting in Bigelow Hall for the purpose of discussing the formation of a combined fire district for an area which will include all of both hamlets.

This meeting had been planned by an advisory committee which came into being shortly after two disastrous fires nearly destroyed two homes in Malden one day last month. The advisory committee headed by Charles Teetsel, temporary chairman had been working for the past three weeks gathering information and this material was presented to the general public. Robert Herb, secretary of the group, read the minutes of the advisory meetings which pertained to organizational matters.

Among the speakers were M. Lawrence Carroll and the Rev. Henry Schumann, both members of the advisory committee. Other speakers included Supervisor Peter Williams, Robert A. Snyder, who discussed insurance matters, and Robert L. Carnright of the law firm of Schirmer and Carnright, who presented the petition.

After a period of discussion a motion was made from the floor to go ahead with the project and the acceptance was made by acclamation. Property owners were still signing the petition after 11 p. m. and up to that time over $125,000 in assessed valuation had been signed. The advisory committee immediately assigned visitation groups to secure signatures from those property owners who were not present. The crowd was estimated at well over 200.

Mrs. Jaqueline Wilcox, county dental hygienist, is visiting the Marbletown Central School during the month of October. All school children are examined for dental defects and reports of these examinations will be sent to parents in the near future.

Mrs. Wilcox's work also includes applying the sodium flouride treatment to the children in grades two, five, and eight, providing the parents have signed the permission slips. In this way, the child receives the sodium flouride treatment as he acquires his permanent teeth and as he progresses through the grades.

TAX CUTS INDICATE DEFICIT

These are the days when the administration is wrestling with the great issue of how to avoid dangerous cuts in defense spending while still making good on political promises to slash taxes and balance the federal budget.

According to at least one Washington correspondent, the first decision in this ticklish field has now been made. That is not to allow the scheduled automatic reduction April 1 of five per cent in corporate income taxes, and of varying percentages in a sizable list of excise levies, such as those on liquor, tobacco, automobiles, and gas.

Were those cuts to take place, it might cost the administration $3 billion in revenue annually. And that loss would come on top of the expected $5 billion drop in consequence of the January 1 elimination of the excess profits tax and 10 per cent reduction in personal income levies.

So President Eisenhower's budget specialists have determined that the April 1 cuts must be blocked. Otherwise, they would have to give up all hope of balancing the budget during the next fiscal year, and perhaps even the year after that. For it is unlikely that sufficient defense savings could be made to close this huge gap without really endangering national security.

This does not mean, of course, that no excise tax reductions will take effect in the coming year. Mr. Eisenhower has promised to do something in 1954 about the movie tax, after having vetoed a bill to wipe it out this spring. Relief from excises seems indicated in other fields, where levies imposed in war emergency now tend to be discriminatory.

But here again, Ike's budget experts are firm in their view that changes in these fields should not produce a net loss of revenue to the Treasury. In other words, if Congress cuts down on some of these taxes, they believe it should impose new excises elsewhere to make up the loss.

No one can be sure, of course, what the congressional reaction will be to this plan. Congress dislikes adding any kind of new tax in an election year. And there seems to be some sentiment among key tax lawmakers for letting the April 1 cuts go through no matter what the President wants.

Even if the plan is nailed down tight, however, and manages to win congressional endorsement, there still remains the question of what to do about the $5 billion loss that should follow from the January reductions.

Should the administration decide this loss cannot be partly or wholly made up by other new taxes, then it must get into the matter of determining how much defense and other spending can be trimmed off to bring the budget closer to balance. Present indications are that the President's experts will not be able to make it the whole way, and that some sort of deficit is thus likely for at least another year.

In these days of the popularity of scores of women's hair preparations it is dangerous for men to pick, for example, blondes instead of brunettes. They may change places tomorrow.

SNORKEL SERVICE

"Snorkel service" is one of the conveniences provided in a small town Kentucky bank. It is a box on the curb which has a window and a small elevator. The motorist drives up, and without leaving his car, presses a button and sends his deposit and bank book down to the teller, whom he can see through a periscope.

This bank is reported to have other unusual features. Free umbrellas are furnished customers caught in the rain. There are free dogwood trees, sunflowers and gladioli bulbs. There is even a juke box.

The one benefit in this list which has its drawbacks is the snorkel. If the idea spreads, it will never be necessary for the motorist to leave his car; and from lack of use his legs will atrophy till they no longer function. Everyone now drives two blocks, even with trouble in parking, rather than walk; but if the Kentucky idea prevails, they will have no choice but to drive, since walking will become physically impossible.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

GOVERNMENT BY CHOICE

This is a "government by choice." The Declaration of Independence proclaimed to the world that every people has a right to choose its own government. The Constitution guarantees a republican form of government for the United States and sets up a device for the election of its officers and legislators.

In municipalities, this country has not done so well. At the turn of the century, Lincoln Steffens wrote a series of articles on the corruption of our cities which attracted wide attention, but really made no difference because in the ensuing decades the grafters became more numerous; their techniques more wily; the size of the loot enormous. Such thieves as Tweed and Croker were amateurs compared with the present breed, who are not chislers but who organize enterprises in collusion with political officials.

Thus, a municipal election rarely touches the principal corruptionists, who generally are nonpartisan or bipartisan, whichever way you like to put it. In the midst of the Fay scandal in New York, which involves corrupt labor unions and corrupt public officials, the metropolis is holding a municipal election in which two of the four candidates are owned outright by labor unions and nobody questions the ownership.

The citizens have had no voice in the selection of these candidates because, as the primaries are rigged, it would make little difference. There was a contest in the Democratic primary, but most of the Democrats remained at home, refusing to vote in a contest which did not inspire them. The Republicans had no such contest, the whole matter being cut and dried.

The A. D. A. (Americans for Democratic Action) is a Fabian Socialist organization which parasitically lives on the Democratic Party. In New York State, it also directs a party, called the Liberal Party, the private possession of David Dubinsky, who heads the International Ladies Garment Workers Union, which has a treasury of more than $160,000,000, which, though honestly managed, produces enormous political power.

The A. D. A. has two candidates for Mayor, Rudolph Halley on the Liberal Party ticket and Robert Wagner, Jr., on the Democratic Party ticket, who insult each other regularly in gutter language, perhaps because it comes naturally to them. The insults mean nothing, however. The quarrel is strictly fraternal.

The incumbent Mayor, Vincent Impellitteri, is a gentleman, no matter what else is said about him, and the evidence is that he is owned neither by the gangs nor the labor leaders, which in this metropolis is at times interchangeable. His weakness has been an inability to build a political organization while he sat in the City Hall. His record of administration has been good but not demonstrative. In New York, everything must be made to appear urgent, enormous, important. Impellitteri does not have the gift of that type of articulation; Impy, as he is popularly called, is therefore out of the running.

The Republican candidate, Harold Riegelman, has long been a student of municipal affairs, particularly on the side of what happens to the people's money. He is likely to be an efficient administrator even under the complex and confused system obtaining in this great city—a system devised to stop corruption by making administration so involved that the corrupt work at it effectively.

While always a Republican, he has been more the pro bono publico citizen than the politician and has, as a lawyer, most often represented those who pay taxes and wonder what for.

Now all this might be regarded as local trivia, were it not that if either Halley or Wagner is elected, it is likely to mean that Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., will be the Democratic candidate for Governor of New York state and that he will control the 94 votes of that state at the next Democratic convention. Thus far, Junior has given evidence of no greater achievement than to have been born of a father who gained the distinction of requiring the passage of a constitutional amendment limiting the Presidency to two terms. It is not likely that the Democrats will relish Junior's national leadership, but that may be their lot and their problem if New Yorkers decide on either Wagner or Halley for Mayor.

In the campaign this has not been brought out. Thus far, the two words most used, and assumedly most enlightening, have been faker and liar. Maybe that is representative government, 1953 model!

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

TREATMENT OF HEART PATIENT

After a student has graduated in medicine, he becomes an intern in a recognized hospital and spends several months in each department of the hospital — general medicine, surgery, psychiatry, arthritis, X-ray, skin diseases, and others.

Despite all that he learns in these various departments, in order to become an all-round physician he must learn to treat the patient while he is treating the disease. In other words, he must gradually become a psychiatrist which means treating the "behavior" of patients and learning how their minds and emotions affect their behavior.

Because emotional disturbances affect the workings of all the body processes, it is only natural that they affect the heart action, and so some valuable advice is given by Dr. Douglas Bird, Professor of Psychiatry, Western Reserve School of Medicine, Cleveland, to interns about the emotional factors involved in putting the proper estimate or evaluation on coronary artery disease (coronary thrombosis).

"So many times you rush into the hospital and ask 'What has come in?' You are told, 'A coronary.' You sit down and write out the order: complete blood count, urinalysis, salt-free diet and so on and so on.

"While this is the correct treatment for coronary thrombosis, it may not be the correct treatment for this particular patient.

"In addition to writing out the medical treatment, this patient, in fact, every patient, may need some particular friendly advice about how to take care of himself in the days to come. Talk to him and see if you can get him to stay in the hospital. Because one thing you can be absolutely sure of: if you don't do this, he is going to leave the hospital. You might as well face the inevitable in such a case for you can't change the patient. Many of you know that it is not easy for some persons to sit in bed and relax just because they are ordered to do so. They stew and fret and probably do much damage to their internal organs if they are thus frustrated."

Therefore, when treating a patient who has just had a coronary attack, the thought is to find out what is on his mind, give him the assurance he needs from other cases which have entered the hospital, remained the necessary length of time for healing, and gone back to their regular work in office or factory.

Edson's Washington News Notebook

Washington — (NEA) — The Internal Revenue Service's new look at possible abuses of business expense deductions could catch a lot of people who think their past taxes are all settled. IRS agents point out that there's a three-year statute of limitations on income taxes. That means that they could re-open returns filed as far back as 1950 and hike charges if it was decided there were abuses of the business expense deduction.

Only cases which were settled in court or by some written agreement with the IRS following a controversy are closed and can't be reopened.

One of the alleged abuses which interests the service most comes in connection with persons who own small firms. It has become a practice among many small business proprietors to charge such things as the family food, cars, home appliances and entertainment off to the expense of the company. This is going to be stopped, service officials claim. And a lot of returns involving such practices will be reopened, they say.

Lively Newspaper

It could be that the ingenuity of American journalists in alerting India to a new method of rice growing may enable that country to produce all the rice she needs.

"The American Reporter," a tabloid published in India, by the U. S. Information Service, got the scoop on a new Japanese method which increases rice yields fourfold. The Indian Food Ministry reports that after the story appeared they received 11,000 requests for information.

If only 3 per cent of the current irrigated paddy area in India is cultivated by the new method, it will be the end of rice shortages in India.

The American newspaper, incidentally, boasts a circulation roughly 32 times better than that of the official Communist weekly and 10 times that of the principal pro-Communist publication.

It's to the Point

A report on one of the shortest Senate committee reports on record was told by William P. Rogers, deputy attorney general of the U. S.

Some years ago he was committee counsel for a Senate committee investigating the Maritime Commission. Without knowing it, the commission had sold some surplus ships which contained large amounts of lead ballast in the holds. In several cases the lead was more valuable than the cost of the entire ship, and the government was looking for a legal means to recover the lead.

During the course of the investigation, one of Rogers' staff men came to him and said the committee had already completed its work.

The report handed to Rogers read: "This committee recommends that the Maritime Commission get the lead out of its bottoms."

End in Sight

Settlement of the long-standing Saar dispute between Germany and France is apparently going to be necessary before France will approve the European Defense Community agreement.

Agreement would permit rearmament of Western Germany. The French government first proposed the EDC idea, but France has balked on ratification of the treaty ever since.

Earlier this year, the Germans stalled on discussing the Saar question with France because it was such a hot political issue in Germany. But with the German elections now out of the way, there is no further obstacle to seeking a solution for political and economic control of the Saar.

If this could be settled by the end of the year, French ratification of the EDC might be hoped for early in 1954.

You're Too Late

Rep. Adam Powell of New York is now called "Hot Rod" Powell as a result of his prowess as the pilot of a supercharged car he drives.

The congressman was making a routine "flight" between Washington and his Westchester, N. Y., home recently. He was roaring through New Jersey when he saw a police car on the other side of the highway make a U-turn and start after him.

Powell, who likes to cruise at 80 or thereabouts, discreetly pulled in between two large trucks and slowed down to 50 miles per hour.

As the police car caught up with him, Powell rolled down his window and yelled, "You're just a few minutes too late. You should have seen the Jaguar that just went by."

Malden-West Camp Fire Meeting Held

Malden, Oct. 22—Residents of Malden and West Camp met at a community meeting in Bigelow Hall for the purpose of discussing the formation of a combined fire district for an area which will include all of both hamlets.

This meeting had been planned by an advisory committee which came into being shortly after two disastrous fires nearly destroyed two homes in Malden one day last month. The advisory committee headed by Charles Teetsel, temporary chairman had been working for the past three weeks gathering information and this material was presented to the general public. Robert Herb, secretary of the group, read the minutes of the advisory meetings which pertained to organizational matters.

Among the speakers were M. Lawrence Carroll and the Rev. Henry Schumann, both members of the advisory committee. Other speakers included Supervisor Peter Williams, Robert A. Snyder, who discussed insurance matters, and Robert L. Carnright of the law firm of Schirmer and Carnright, who presented the petition.

After a period of discussion a motion was made from the floor to go ahead with the project and the acceptance was made by acclamation. Property owners were still signing the petition after 11 p. m. and up to that time over $125,000 in assessed valuation had been signed. The advisory committee immediately assigned visitation groups to secure signatures from those property owners who were not present. The crowd was estimated at well over 200.

"About dusk, for several evenings, a family of barn owls swooped on residents of Ford City, causing them to run for cover," says Brion. He adds similar owl attacks have been reported elsewhere in the state this year.

Greene Arranges Rabies Clinics

Greene county health authorities have started planning for vaccination clinics following discovery of a rabid fox this week at Greenville.

The Ulster county health department today indicated that no rabid animal has been discovered here but two were suspected, and after tests were found not to be rabid.

Cases of rabies have been reported in Albany and Schoharie counties. Rabies clinics have been held in some Greene county communities and others are scheduled for next week.

Two dogs in Greene county, known to have been bitten by the fox are under quarantine. Both had been previously immunized about two years ago, but because of the time elapsed are now being watched.

LOCAL LAW
NO. 1, YEAR 1953
COUNTY OF ULSTER, NEW YORK

A LOCAL LAW PRESCRIBING REGULATIONS RELATIVE TO THE PARKING OF VEHICLES IN CERTAIN COUNTY OWNED PARKING LOTS IN THE CITY OF KINGSTON, PROVIDING FOR THE INSTALLATION, OPERATION, MAINTENANCE, SUPERVISION, REGULATION AND CONTROL OF THE USE OF PARKING METERS: DEFINING AND PROVIDING FOR THE ESTABLISHMENT OF PARKING METERS IN SAID PARKING LOTS: PROVIDING PENALTIES FOR THE VIOLATION THEREOF AND REPEALING ALL OTHER LOCAL LAWS OR RESOLUTIONS INCONSISTENT HEREWITH.

Be it enacted by the Board of Supervisors of Ulster County as follows:

Section 1. The following words, when used in this local law, shall have the meanings ascribed to them in this section, except in those instances where the context clearly indicates otherwise.

(a) The word "vehicle" shall mean any device in, upon, or by which any person or property is or may be transported upon a highway except a device which is operated upon rails or tracks.

(b) The words "county owned parking lots" shall mean those areas fronting on John and Crown Streets and on Main Street in the City of Kingston, Ulster County, New York, more particularly described as parcels 1 and 2 in a resolution of the Board of Supervisors of Ulster County, adopted July 21, 1953, establishing said areas as county owned parking lots.

(c) The word "person" shall mean and include every natural person, firm, co-partnership, association or corporation.

(d) The word "operator" shall mean and include every individual who shall operate a vehicle as the owner thereof, or as the agent, employee or permittee of the owner, or is in actual physical control of a vehicle.

Section 2. It is hereby declared to be the purpose of the County of Ulster to use parking meters as a means, but not as an exclusive means, for governing or restricting the parking of vehicles in said county parking lots within the City of Kingston for the convenience, safety and accommodation of the public and the relieving of traffic congestion.

Section 3. The following areas are hereby established as parking meter areas, limiting the time of parking to three hours between the hours of 8:00 A. M. until 12:00 midnight on all days other than Sundays and legal holidays.

Parcel 1. That area fronting on John and Crown Streets in the City of Kingston presently used by the general public as a parking lot.

Parcel 2. That property located on Main Street in the City of Kingston adjacent to the County Clerk's Office and being the same premises formerly occupied by the Eagle Hotel and presently used by the general public as a parking lot.

Section 4. Parking meters installed in the parking meter areas as provided in Section 3 hereof shall be placed in said parking meter areas immediately in front of the individual parking places hereinafter described. Each parking meter shall be placed or set in such a manner as to show that the parking space in front of such meter is or is not legally occupied. Each parking meter installed shall indicate by a proper legend the legal parking time established by the county and when operated shall indicate on and by its face by a signal other than red for the duration of the period of legal parking, and on the expiration of such period of legal parking shall indicate illegal or overtime parking by a red signal on its face or on the top thereof.

Section 5. Where lines or markings are painted or placed within the parking areas aforesaid in front of each parking meter, for the purposed of designating the parking space for which each meter is to be used, each vehicle parked in front of any meter shall park within the lines or markings so placed. It shall be unlawful and a violation of this law to park any vehicle across such line or marking or to park said vehicle in such position that the same shall not be entirely within the area so designated by such lines or markings.

Section 6. When a parking space in any parking meter area is at a right angle or diagonal to the curb or barrier in front of said space, any vehicle in such parking space shall be parked with the foremost part of such vehicle nearest to such meter.

Section 7. The operator shall, upon entering said parking space, deposit the sum of 5 cents for a period of one hour and an additional 5 cents for each additional one hour desired up to 15 cents for three hours. The parking space may then be lawfully occupied by such vehicle for a period of one hour and upon the deposit of one 5 cent coin and one additional hour for each additional 5 cent coin deposited up to the sum of 15 cents. If said vehicle shall remain parked in such parking space beyond the period of the time purchased by the operator, the meter will, by a red signal, indicate such illegal parking and in that event, such vehicle shall be considered as parked overtime and beyond the period of legal parking time and shall be a violation of this law and punishable as hereinafter set forth.

Section 8. It shall be unlawful and a violation of the provisions of this local law for any person or operator to cause, allow, permit or suffer any vehicle, registered in the name of, or operated by such person, to be parked overtime or beyond the period of legal parking time established for any parking meter area as herein described.

Section 9. It shall be unlawful and a violation of the provisions of this local law for any person to deposit or cause to be deposited in a parking meter a 5 cent coin for the purpose of increasing or extending the parking time of any vehicle beyond the period of three hours.

Section 10. It shall be unlawful and a violation of the provisions of this local law to deposit or cause to be deposited in any parking meter, any slug, device or metallic substitute for a five-cent coin of the United States.

Section 11. It shall be unlawful and a violation of the provisions of this local law for any person to deface, injure, tamper with, open or willfully break, destroy, or impair the usefulness of any parking meter installed under the provisions of this local law.

Section 12. It shall be the duty of the Deputy Sheriffs of the County of Ulster, acting in accordance with instructions issued by the Sheriff of the County of Ulster to report:

(a) The number of each parking meter which indicates that the vehicle occupying the parking space in front of such parking meter is or has been parked in violation of any of the provisions of this local law.

(b) The State license number of such vehicle.

(c) The length of time during which such vehicle is parked in violation of any of the provisions of this local law at the time of his inspection.

(d) Any other facts, a knowledge of which is necessary to a thorough understanding of the circumstances attending such violation.

Each Deputy Sheriff shall also place on such vehicle a notice to the owner thereof that such vehicle has been parked in violation of the provisions of this local law, and summoning such owner to appear before the Judge of the City Court of the City of Kingston at a time therein mentioned.

Section 13. Whenever any vehicle shall be found parked overtime in any parking meter space or shall be found parked therein in violation of any of the provisions of this section, such vehicle may be removed and conveyed by or under the direction of a member of the Sheriff's Department by means of towing the same, or otherwise, to the vehicle pound; and such removal shall be at the risk of the owner of such vehicle. Before the owner or person in charge of such vehicle shall be permitted to remove the same from the custody of the Sheriff's department, he shall furnish evidence of his identity and ownership or right to possession, and shall sign a receipt for such vehicle.

Section 14. In any prosecution or proceeding hereunder, the registration plate displayed on a motor vehicle shall constitute in evidence a prima facie presumption that the owner of such vehicle was the person who parked such vehicle at the place where such violation occurred.

Section 15. It shall be the duty of the Sheriff of the County of Ulster to designate a deputy Sheriff or deputy Sheriffs of the County to make regular collections of the coins deposited in the parking meters. It shall be the duty of such person or persons to remove such coins and deliver the same to the Treasurer of the County of Ulster.

Section 16. The provisions of this local law may be temporarily suspended by the Sheriff or the acting Sheriff, and he may prescribe temporarily such other rules and regulations as traffic conditions may require. The Sheriff may extend the time of the operation of the said parking meters beyond the hours mentioned in Section 3 hereof.

Section 17. That any person, firm, corporation, association or organization whether as principal or agent violating or assisting in the violation of any of the provisions of this local law shall upon conviction thereof be sentenced to pay a fine not exceeding fifty dollars, and in default of the payment of such fine shall be imprisoned for a period not exceeding five days.

Section 18. The five-cent coins required to be deposited in parking meters as provided herein are hereby levied and assessed as fees to provide for the proper regulation and control of parking upon said county parking lots and also the cost of supervising and regulating the parking of vehicles therein and to cover the cost of the purchase, supervision, protection, inspection, installation, operation, maintenance, control and use of the parking meters described herein.

Section 19. If any section, part of section, sentence, clause or phrase of this local law shall be held to be unconstitutional or invalid, the remaining provisions hereof shall nevertheless remain in full force and effect.

Section 20. All local laws or parts of local laws inconsistent with the provisions of this local law are hereby repealed.

This law shall take effect immediately.

BOOK REVIEW

To further increase interest in the Kingston Library the following review by Mrs. G. Cramer Dodge is published.

THE SPIRIT OF ST. LOUIS

By Charles A. Lindbergh

This is the story, told by the world's most famous aviator, about the most dramatic aerial exploit in all flight history.

Although the first non-stop flight from New York to Paris happened, as everyone knows in 1927, there is not a stale note in this narrative—in fact as the story unfolds it presents a picture of a dedicated young pilot, conceiving the idea of a New York to Paris flight one moonlight night on his lonely mail plane route; and from that moment devoting every hour of his spare time, every ounce of his spare energy and every dollar of his spare money to the accomplishment of that dream.

There is a fairy-tale quality in the account of the accomplishment of this great feat by an unknown pilot, flying a special airplane, built for him by an unknown company (but with a Whirlwind Wright motor) asking for only a minimum of backing, insisting upon going alone, sacrificing every ounce of equipment, clothing, food, etc., in order to carry more fuel, competing with older, more experienced pilots with much better planes and far more elaborate preparations. And then coming out from behind and making it, while other planes have either cracked up, or been lost, or are still being polished up to the perfection demanded by their backers.

The construction of the Lindbergh plane by a small company in San Diego is quite a story in itself. Fired by the daring of the enterprize every man on the force willingly works far overtime to get the job done as rapidly as possible in order to beat the other contestants for the Orteig Prize. Newspaper accounts of other starts and failures only spur them on. The author works closely with the drafting room to make this the best possible airship within his budget. Then, when the plane is finished, every man on the force signs his name on the front wing spar—"For luck", and soon after that the Spirit of St. Louis is ready for the tests. Col. Lindbergh makes those tests alone, and in record time and then he's off for St. Louis. Who do you suppose knocks the chocks away at this take-off? A young mechanic named Douglas Corrigan. "Wrong Way Corrigan." Remember him? After a rough trip over the Rockies he arrives at St. Louis. Foregoing planned celebrations there, he goes on to New York after a one-night stop. Then Roosevelt Field and here his reputation has preceded him. He is besieged by a crowd of news reporters, photographers, etc., until rescued by Casey Jones, famous Curtiss test pilot and now manager of the field.

This is May 12th. Now nothing much more to do except to arrange for a take-off (that is settled by Commander Byrd's gracious permission to use Roosevelt) study the runway, and wait upon the weather. Reports are freely given by the weather bureau. On the evening of May 19th, somewhat discouraged by poor weather reports, the author, with some St. Louis friends are on their way to an evening at the theatre in New York when they suddenly decide to make one more check on the weather. To their surprise the report is "Weather Clearing". Gone are the theatre plans. A quick return to Garden City. Rapid and complete last minute plans for final service to the plane—and a decision to start at dawn if the weather holds. That took until 2:15 a. m. and that's why the pilot started on that famous flight after less than two hours' sleep.

At 7:52 a. m. he's off, leaving a stunned little group behind him. Then follows an hour by hour account of that lonely, historic flight. Fascinating not only because it shows the care and precision with which every possible change in wind, weather or other contingencies are forseen and provided for and dealt with as each comes up, but because of the recounting of the pilot's thoughts and reminiscences which come to him as he struggles mightly to keep awake and to keep his ship on course. Together these reveal him, not as the popularly regarded simple country bumpkin pilot; but rather as a man highly skilled in his beloved profession, with 2,000 hours of flying in the toughest kind of flights behind him; and with an American family background equal to the best in respectability and culture. And the humility of the man-attribute of the truly great—which shows up all through the book and at no time more outstandingly than when he tells of his astonishment when he learns that the enormous crowd assembled at LeBourget flying field are there to meet him. When he first sighted the long line of cars at the far side of the airport he thought it was a traffic block.

With photographic clarity Col. Lindbergh describes the landing at Le Bourget. The wild frenzy of the mob as they welcomed him to France, carrying him on their shoulders and almost wrecking the plane in their greed for souvenirs; the lucky ruse which forced a reporter to accept, for a short time, the honors meant for the author; and the clever maneuver by which he was whisked, first to see his beloved plane safely guarded and then by an untraveled route to the tomb of the Unknown Soldier and then to the American Embassy, arriving several hours before Ambassador Herrick, himself caught in a traffic jam. The reader is caught up in the excitement of this drama of twenty-six years ago as though it had happened yesterday.

There are those who will wonder how much of the poetic quality of the writing in this magnificent book has been—consciously or unconsciously — borrowed from the unique literary style of the Colonel's wife, Anne Morrow Lindgergh. That question has been adequately answered in the dedication which reads, "To A.M.L., who will never realize how much of this book she has written."

Hospital to Work On Cancer, Heart At Paramus Site

Paramus, N. J., Oct. 23 (AP)—A new hospital—costing 8½ million dollars and containing 350 beds—will be built on Rt. 17 and Midland avenue here, according to plans announced yesterday.

Cancer and heart research centers will be set up in the hospital which also is to be equipped to handle 100,000 casualties in the event of a major disaster in the metropolitan area.

Dr. Herman H. Livingston of New Rochelle, N. Y., who will serve as president of the privately-financed hospital, and George Jetter of Washington, D. C., who will be executive vice president of the Livingston Clinic, Inc., announced the project.

Plans call for a seven-story building on a 21-acre tract, with an adjacent seven-story nursing home and training center. There also will be smaller buildings for use as laboratories for major work in heart, cancer and industrial research.

Jetter said ground breaking won't get under way for at least three months.

Special Store of Cots

The hospital will have a special store of cots and tents to handle 100,000 disaster casualties.

The organizers said the hospital itself will specialize in heart research. All research is to be recorded on film to be distributed to major universities throughout the country. This aims at bringing research workers closer together, the organizers said.

Dr. Livingston is a noted cancer and bone surgery specialist. He served as an army transport surgeon during World War 2, helping evacuate wounded in North Africa, Normandy and the Pacific theatre.

He is associate surgeon at Montefiore Hospital in New York, attending surgeon at Morrisania City Hospital, New York, and associate clinical professor of surgery at New York Medical College.

Jetter is a businessman who has been one of the principal organizers of the hospital project.

Dummy Reversal Is Effective Play

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

The "dummy reversal" is usually shown as a very fancy play in which declarer does all sorts of tricky ruffing in his own hand, winding up in dummy to draw the last trump with some very unlikely looking trump. But the dummy reversal doesn't have to be quite so flashy; it can be a very simple, mousy-looking creature.

Take today's hand for example. South wins the opening lead in dummy with the ace of hearts, counting one trump loser and three possible club losers. What can he do to reduce the loss?

If South tries to ruff his fourth club in dummy, East will overruff. If South tries to draw two rounds of trumps first, West will draw the third trump and then cash the fourth round of clubs safely.

If South tries to set up his own hand, therefore, he will have to lose a trump and three clubs against alert defense.

There's a different story to tell if South tries to set up dummy instead of his own hand. The effort to set up dummy is the essential part of the play known as the dummy reversal.

If you're going to set up the dummy, you naturally plan to ruff out dummy's losing hearts. And if you do that, you just can't lose the hand.

You take the first trick with the ace of hearts, ruff a heart, cash the top trumps, and enter dummy twice with high diamonds to ruff out dummy's remaining hearts. Then you lead a third diamond towards the dummy.

It doesn't matter when West decides to ruff. Dummy will lose exactly one trump and two clubs —nothing else.

Not a fancy play, to be sure, but very, very effective.

Greene Arranges Rabies Clinics

Greene county health authorities have started planning for vaccination clinics following discovery of a rabid fox this week at Greenville.

The Ulster county health department today indicated that no rabid animal has been discovered here but two were suspected, and after tests were found not to be rabid.

Cases of rabies have been reported in Albany and Schoharie counties. Rabies clinics have been held in some Greene county communities and others are scheduled for next week.

Two dogs in Greene county, known to have been bitten by the fox are under quarantine. Both had been previously immunized about two years ago, but because of the time elapsed are now being watched.

LOCAL LAW
NO. 1, YEAR 1953
COUNTY OF ULSTER, NEW YORK

A LOCAL LAW PRESCRIBING REGULATIONS RELATIVE TO THE PARKING OF VEHICLES IN CERTAIN COUNTY OWNED PARKING LOTS IN THE CITY OF KINGSTON, PROVIDING FOR THE INSTALLATION, OPERATION, MAINTENANCE, SUPERVISION, REGULATION AND CONTROL OF THE USE OF PARKING METERS; DEFINING AND PROVIDING FOR THE ESTABLISHMENT OF PARKING METERS IN SAID PARKING LOTS; PROVIDING PENALTIES FOR THE VIOLATION THEREOF AND REPEALING ALL OTHER LOCAL LAWS OR RESOLUTIONS INCONSISTENT HEREWITH.

Be it enacted by the Board of Supervisors of Ulster County as follows:

Section 1. The following words, when used in this local law, shall have the meanings ascribed to them in this section, except in those instances where the context clearly indicates otherwise.

(a) The word "vehicle" shall mean any device in, upon, or by which any person or property is or may be transported upon a highway except a device which is operated upon rails or tracks.

(b) The words "county owned parking lots" shall mean those areas fronting on John and Crown Streets and on Main Street in the City of Kingston, Ulster County, New York, more particularly described as parcels 1 and 2 in a resolution of the Board of Supervisors of Ulster County, adopted July 21, 1953, establishing said areas as county owned parking lots.

(c) The word "person" shall mean and include every natural person, firm, co-partnership, association or corporation.

(d) The word "operator" shall mean and include every individual who shall operate a vehicle as the owner thereof, or as the agent, employee or permittee of the owner, or is in actual physical control of a vehicle.

Section 2. It is hereby declared to be the purpose of the County of Ulster to use parking meters as a means, but not as an exclusive means, for governing or restricting the parking of vehicles in said county parking lots within the City of Kingston for the convenience, safety and accommodation of the public and the relieving of traffic congestion.

Section 3. The following areas are hereby established as parking meter areas, limiting the time of parking to three hours between the hours of 8:00 A. M. until 12:00 midnight on all days other than Sundays and legal holidays.

Parcel 1. That area fronting on John and Crown Streets in the City of Kingston presently used by the general public as a parking lot.

Parcel 2. That property located on Main Street in the City of Kingston adjacent to the County Clerk's Office and being the same premises formerly occupied by the Eagle Hotel and presently used by the general public as a parking lot.

Section 4. Parking meters installed in the parking meter areas as provided in Section 3 hereof shall be placed in said parking meter areas immediately in front of the individual parking places hereinafter described. Each parking meter shall be placed or set in such a manner as to show that the parking space in front of such meter is or is not legally occupied. Each parking meter installed shall indicate by a proper legend the legal parking time established by the county and when operated shall indicate on and by its face by a signal other than red for the duration of the period of legal parking, and on the expiration of such period of legal parking shall indicate illegal or overtime parking by a red signal on its face or on the top thereof.

Section 5. Where lines or markings are painted or placed within the parking areas aforesaid in front of each parking meter, for the purposed of designating the parking space for which each meter is to be used, each vehicle parked in front of any meter shall park within the lines or markings so placed. It shall be unlawful and a violation of this law to park any vehicle across such line or marking or to park said vehicle in such position that the same shall not be entirely within the area so designated by such lines or markings.

Section 6. When a parking space in any parking meter area is at a right angle or diagonal to the curb or barrier in front of said space, any vehicle in such parking space shall be parked with the foremost part of such vehicle nearest to such meter.

Section 7. The operator shall, upon entering said parking space, deposit the sum of 5 cents for a period of one hour and an additional 5 cents for each additional one hour desired up to 15 cents for three hours. The parking space may then be lawfully occupied by such vehicle for a period of one hour and upon the deposit of one 5 cent coin and one additional hour for each additional 5 cent coin deposited up to the sum of 15 cents. If said vehicle shall remain parked in such parking space beyond the period of the time purchased by the operator, the meter will, by a red signal, indicate such illegal parking and in that event, such vehicle shall be considered as parked overtime and beyond the period of legal parking time and shall be a violation of this law and punishable as hereinafter set forth.

Section 8. It shall be unlawful and a violation of the provisions of this local law for any person or operator to cause, allow, permit or suffer any vehicle, registered in the name of, or operated by such person, to be parked overtime or beyond the period of legal parking time established for any parking meter area as herein described.

Section 9. It shall be unlawful and a violation of the provisions of this local law for any person to deposit or cause to be deposited in a parking meter a 5 cent coin for the purpose of increasing or extending the parking time of any vehicle beyond the period of three hours.

Section 10. It shall be unlawful and a violation of the provisions of this local law to deposit or cause to be deposited in any parking meter, any slug, device or metallic substitute for a five-cent coin of the United States.

Section 11. It shall be unlawful and a violation of the provisions of this local law for any person to deface, injure, tamper with, open or willfully break, destroy, or impair the usefulness of any parking meter installed under the provisions of this local law.

Section 12. It shall be the duty of the Deputy Sheriffs of the County of Ulster, acting in accordance with instructions issued by the Sheriff of the County of Ulster to report:

(a) The number of each parking meter which indicates that the vehicle occupying the parking space in front of such parking meter is or has been parked in violation of any of the provisions of this local law.

(b) The State license number of such vehicle.

(c) The length of time during which such vehicle is parked in violation of any of the provisions of this local law at the time of his inspection.

(d) Any other facts, a knowledge of which is necessary to a thorough understanding of the circumstances attending such violation.

Each Deputy Sheriff shall also place on such vehicle a notice to the owner thereof that such vehicle has been parked in violation of the provisions of this local law, and summoning such owner to appear before the Judge of the City Court of the City of Kingston at a time therein mentioned.

Section 13. Whenever any vehicle shall be found parked overtime in any parking meter space or shall be found parked therein in violation of any of the provisions of this section, such vehicle may be removed and conveyed by or under the direction of a member of the Sheriff's Department by means of towing the same, or otherwise, to the vehicle pound; and such removal shall be at the risk of the owner of such vehicle. Before the owner or person in charge of such vehicle shall be permitted to remove the same from the custody of the Sheriff's department, he shall furnish evidence of his identity and ownership or right to possession, and shall sign a receipt for such vehicle.

Section 14. In any prosecution or proceeding hereunder, the registration plate displayed on a motor vehicle shall constitute in evidence a prima facie presumption that the owner of such vehicle was the person who parked such vehicle at the place where such violation occurred.

Section 15. It shall be the duty of the Sheriff of the County of Ulster to designate a deputy Sheriff or deputy Sheriffs of the County to make regular collections of the coins deposited in the parking meters. It shall be the duty of such person or persons to remove such coins and deliver the same to the Treasurer of the County of Ulster.

Section 16. The provisions of this local law may be temporarily suspended by the Sheriff or the acting Sheriff, and he may prescribe temporarily such other rules and regulations as traffic conditions may require. The Sheriff may extend the time of the operation of the said parking meters beyond the hours mentioned in Section 3 hereof.

Section 17. That any person, firm, corporation, association or organization whether as principal or agent violating or assisting in the violation of any of the provisions of this local law shall upon conviction thereof be sentenced to pay a fine not exceeding fifty dollars, and in default of the payment of such fine shall be imprisoned for a period not exceeding five days.

Section 18. The five-cent coins required to be deposited in parking meters as provided herein are hereby levied and assessed as fees to provide for the proper regulation and control of parking upon said county parking lots and also the cost of supervising and regulating the parking of vehicles therein and to cover the cost of the purchase, supervision, protection, inspection, installation, operation, maintenance, control and use of the parking meters described herein.

Section 19. If any section, part of section, sentence, clause or phrase of this local law shall be held to be unconstitutional or invalid, the remaining provisions hereof shall nevertheless remain in full force and effect.

Section 20. All local laws or parts of local laws inconsistent with the provisions of this local law are hereby repealed.

This law shall take effect immediately.

BOOK REVIEW

To further increase interest in the Kingston Library the following review by Mrs. G. Cramer Dodge is published.

THE SPIRIT OF ST. LOUIS
By Charles A. Lindbergh

This is the story, told by the world's most famous aviator, about the most dramatic aerial exploit in all flight history.

Although the first non-stop flight from New York to Paris happened, as everyone knows in 1927, there is not a stale note in this narrative—in fact as the story unfolds it presents a picture of a dedicated young pilot, conceiving the idea of a New York to Paris flight one moonlight night on his lonely mail plane route; and from that moment devoting every hour of his spare time, every once of his spare energy and every dollar of his spare money to the accomplishment of that dream.

There is a fairy-tale quality in the account of the accomplishment of this great feat by an unknown pilot, flying a special airplane, built for him by an unknown company (but with a Whirlwind Wright motor) asking for only a minimum of backing, insisting upon going alone, sacrificing every ounce of equipment, clothing, food, etc., in order to carry more fuel, competing with older, more experienced pilots with much better planes and far more elaborate preparations. And then coming out from behind and making it, while other planes have either cracked up, or been lost, or are still being polished up to the perfection demanded by their backers.

The construction of the Lindbergh plane by a small company in San Diego is quite a story in itself. Fired by the daring of the enterprize every man on the force willingly works far overtime to get the job done as rapidly as possible in order to beat the other contestants for the Orteig Prize. Newspaper accounts of other starts and failures only spur them on. The author works closely with the drafting room to make this the best possible airship within his budget. Then, when the plane is finished, every man on the force signs his name on the front wing spar—"For luck", and soon after that the Spirit of St. Louis is ready for the tests. Col. Lindbergh makes those tests alone, and in record time and then he's off for St. Louis. Who do you suppose knocks the chocks away at this take-off? A young mechanic named Douglas Corrigan. "Wrong Way Corrigan." Remember him? After a rough trip over the Rockies he arrives at St. Louis. Foregoing planned celebrations there, he goes on to New York after a one-night stop. Then Roosevelt Field and here his reputation has preceded him. He is besieged by a crowd of news reporters, photographers, etc., until rescued by Casey Jones, famous Curtiss test pilot and now manager of the field.

This is May 12th. Now nothing much more to do except to arrange for a take-off (that is settled by Commander Byrd's gracious permission to use Roosevelt) study the runway, and wait upon the weather. Reports are freely given by the weather bureau. On the evening of May 19th, somewhat discouraged by poor weather reports, the author, with some St. Louis friends are on their way to an evening at the theatre in New York when they suddenly decide to make one more check on the weather. To their surprise the report is "Weather Clearing". Gone are the theatre plans. A quick return to Garden City. Rapid and complete last minute plans for final service to the plane—and a decision to start at dawn if the weather holds. That took until 2:15 a. m. and that's why the pilot started on that famous flight after less than two hours' sleep.

At 7:52 a. m. he's off, leaving a stunned little group behind him. Then follows an hour by hour account of that lonely, historic flight. Fascinating not only because it shows the care and precision with which every possible change in wind, weather or other contingencies are forseen and provided for and dealt with as each comes up, but because of the recounting of the pilot's thoughts and reminiscences which come to him as he struggles mightly to keep awake and to keep his ship on course. Together these reveal him, not as the popularly regarded simple country bumpkin pilot; but rather as a man highly skilled in his beloved profession, with 2,000 hours of flying in the toughest kind of flights behind him; and with an American family background equal to the best in respectability and culture. And the humility of the man-attribute of the truly great—which shows up all through the book and at no time more outstandingly than when he tells of his astonishment when he learns that the enormous crowd assembled at LeBourget flying field are there to meet him. When he first sighted the long line of cars at the far side of the airport he thought it was a traffic block.

With photographic clarity Col. Lindbergh describes the landing at Le Bourget. The wild frenzy of the mob as they welcomed him to France, carrying him on their shoulders and almost wrecking the plane in their greed for souvenirs; the lucky ruse which forced a reporter to accept, for a short time, the honors meant for the author; and the clever maneuver by which he was whisked, first to see his beloved plane safely guarded and then by an untraveled route to the tomb of the Unknown Soldier and then to the American Embassy, arriving several hours before Ambassador Herrick, himself caught in a traffic jam. The reader is caught up in the excitement of this drama of twenty-six years ago as though it had happened yesterday.

There are those who will wonder how much of the poetic quality of the writing in this magnificent book has been—consciously or unconsciously — borrowed from the unique literary style of the Colonel's wife, Anne Morrow Lindgergh. That question has been adequately answered in the dedication which reads, "To A.M.L., who will never realize how much of this book she has written."

Hospital to Work On Cancer, Heart At Paramus Site

Paramus, N. J., Oct. 23 (AP)—A new hospital—costing 8½ million dollars and containing 350 beds—will be built on Rt. 17 and Midland avenue here, according to plans announced yesterday.

Cancer and heart research centers will be set up in the hospital which also is to be equipped to handle 100,000 casualties in the event of a major disaster in the metropolitan area.

Dr. Herman H. Livingston of New Rochelle, N. Y., who will serve as president of the privately-financed hospital, and George Jetter of Washington, D. C., who will be executive vice president of the Livingston Clinic, Inc., announced the project.

Plans call for a seven-story building on a 21-acre tract, with an adjacent seven-story nursing home and training center. There also will be smaller buildings for use as laboratories for major work in heart, cancer and industrial research.

Jetter said ground breaking won't get under way for at least three months.

Special Store of Cots

The hospital will have a special store of cots and tents to handle 100,000 disaster casualties.

The organizers said the hospital itself will specialize in heart research. All research is to be recorded on film to be distributed to major universities throughout the country. This aims at bringing research workers closer together, the organizers said.

Dr. Livingston is a noted cancer and bone surgery specialist. He served as an army transport surgeon during World War 2, helping evacuate wounded in North Africa, Normandy and the Pacific theatre.

He is associate surgeon at Montefiore Hospital in New York, attending surgeon at Morrisania City Hospital, New York, and associate clinical professor of surgery at New York Medical College.

Jetter is a businessman who has been one of the principal organizers of the hospital project.

Dummy Reversal Is Effective Play

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

The 'dummy reversal" is usually shown as a very fancy play in which declarer does all sorts of tricky ruffing in his own hand, winding up in dummy to draw the last trump with some very unlikely looking trump. But the dummy reversal doesn't have to be quite so flashy; it can be a very simple, mousy-looking creature.

Take today's hand for example. South wins the opening lead in dummy with the ace of hearts, counting one trump loser and three possible club losers. What can he do to reduce the loss?

If South tries to ruff his fourth club in dummy, East will overruff. If South tries to draw two rounds of trumps first, West will draw the third trump and then cash the fourth round of clubs safely.

If South tries to set up his own hand, therefore, he will have to lose a trump and three clubs against alert defense.

There's a different story to tell if South tries to set up dummy instead of his own hand. The effort to set up dummy is the essential part of the play known as the dummy reversal.

Opening lead—♥ Q

If you're going to set up the dummy, you naturally plan to ruff out dummy's losing hearts. And if you do that, you just can't lose the hand.

You take the first trick with the ace of hearts, ruff a heart, cash the top trumps, and enter dummy twice with high diamonds to ruff out dummy's remaining hearts. Then you lead a third diamond towards the dummy.

It doesn't matter when West decides to ruff. Dummy will lose exactly one trump and two clubs —nothing else.

Not a fancy play, to be sure, but very, very effective.

Members of Committee Arranging Donation Day Tea

President Expresses Gratitude to Donors At Musicale and Tea

More than 100 persons attended the annual Donation Day tea and musicale held Thursday afternoon at the Home for the Aged, Washington avenue. Mrs. B. H. Matteson, president, welcomed those present, expressed appreciation for the generous donations received, and explained briefly the function of the board of managers which sponsored the tea.

Although a complete report of contributions is not yet available, Mrs. Matteson indicated the total would exceed that received in former years. The "splendid cooperation given us by the local press and radio have been largely responsible for the success of this day," the president said. She also complimented the numerous committee members for their important work in connection with the event.

Mrs. George Bond of New Paltz, soprano soloist, delighted the large audience. From the opening strains of Brahms' Lullaby to a concluding encore, Drink to Me Only With Thine Eyes, Mrs. Bond received the plaudits of her listeners.

Included in the well diversified program presented by Mrs. Bond were Songs My Mother Taught Me, Dvorak; The False Prophet by John Prindle Scott; Gershwin's Summertime; Your Song from Paradise, Brown; and the Cuckoo, Liza Lehman. Mrs. Francis Smiley of Lake Mohonk, was piano accompanist. The artists were introduced by Mrs. Jacob Elting, program chairman.

A short business meeting attended by the managers was held prior to the tea.

Featured in Furs and Leathers

Depth is the newest thing about fall handbag fashions. It's depth that makes for harmony with the slender fall silhouette. Closed bucket bag (upper left) is in antique amber calf, has a vibrant color tone. Grained leather satchel with slim handles (upper center) is in maple-toned calf, is lined in honey-color smooth leather. Typical of larger sizes in dressy bags for late day is elongated, sleek box (upper right) in red chiffon velvet. This is lined in blonde leather. Oversized deep bucket (lower left) is in rich silver gray mouton fur with longer than average handle in black leather. French purse (lower center) is leopard-dyed rabbit, is worn opened out, not folded over as in previous years. This is a smart bag for dressy daytime or late day wear. Dramatic satchel in giant size (lower right) is made of black wool yarn, has gros point design of single huge rose in varied shades of pink and spray of green leaves in two tones.

Well-Chosen Accessories Will Brighten Old Clothes

This smart young woman realizes that she does not need a completely new wardrobe to be right in step with fall fashions. Instead, she has taken the time to make an inventory of her present fall wardrobe (left), discarding a few items that are no longer serviceable. For the holdovers she selects accessories (center) that give a fresh, new look. To dramatize her basic suit she chooses one of the very new fur helmets, a broad gold bracelet and a pearl choker. For a really high fashion note she chooses a lipstick and nail polish that blend with her costume's color. A final blotting of the lipstick (right) and she is beautifully groomed. And her budget is intact since her expenditures have been limited to make-up and accessories.

Fenders Are Damaged In Two-Car Collision

A 1949 suburban, operated by George Phillips Cox, 29, of Olive Bridge, traveling toward Broadway on East O'Reilly street, was in collision with a 1938 sedan operated by Eleanor Krom, 49, of Rifton, at 2:38 p. m. yesterday, according to city police.

Officers Crawford Millham and Bernard J. Fowler reported that the Krom car was stopped on East O'Reilly street waiting for the light to change and that Cox attempted to pass, thinking the other car was parked.

Firemen Extinguish Brush and Leaf Fires

City firemen responded to two calls during the last 24 hours, one for a brush fire and the other for leaves burning in a gutter.

The first call came at 5:24 p. m. yesterday for a brush fire on High road off Union street. Engine 2 from Cornell Station answered.

The second call was received by telephone at 2:40 a. m. today reporting leaves burning in the gutter at 157 Mary's avenue. Central Station responded.

Treasury Halts Sale

Washington, Oct. 24 (AP) — The treasury, trying to avoid being pushed up against the legal ceiling on the national debt, has stopped selling savings notes. The notes—not be be confused with savings bonds, which can still be bought—were being snapped up by investors at a rate of more than 60 million dollars on some days. They pay 2.21 per cent interest and are used mostly by corporations which have cash reserves to invest for a short time. The treasury took them off the market last night because every time one is sold it increases the national debt. The debt subject to limit is now about 2½ billion dollars below the statutory ceiling of 275 billion. The treasury expects to use up the greater portion of that leeway next week in marketing a 2½ to 2 billion dollar bond issue.

Chrysler Buys Briggs

Detroit, Oct. 24 (AP)—Chrysler Corp. expects to acquire all auto body and parts making plants of the Briggs Manufacturing Co. within the next 60 days for 35 million dollars. President L. L. Colbert of Chrysler said officials of both firms already have agreed on the purchase, but that approval must be obtained from Briggs stockholders. Briggs' 12 major plants in the Detroit area normally employ from 35,000 to 40,000 workers and its acquisition by Chrysler will make Chrysler the largest employer in the Detroit area with 130,000 to 140,000. Ford, now the largest, has 100,000 to 110,000.

Drouth Break Seen

Washington, Oct. 24 (AP)—Weather officials voice hopes that the drouth—worst in history in some parts of the United States—may break up soon. Some rain has already fallen in parts of the southwest and midwest and Jerome Namias, chief of long range weather forecasters, said yesterday: "The storm area has a good chance of coming east." The forecasters, interviewed yesterday, hesitated to say whether this would be the end, or only an interruption, of the long drouth that began developing in 1951.

Milton Woman Inherits

New York, Oct. 24 (AP) (Special)—Marian E. Stewart of Milton is a beneficiary in the estate of the late Elizabeth Stewart, of 250 North Fulton avenue, Mount Vernon, according to a report filed here Friday by the State Transfer Tax Department. She inherits one-twelfth of the estate after certain specific bequests are distributed. The estate was appraised today at $33,803, gross, and $30,954, net value. The Mount Vernon woman died Nov. 11, 1952, at the age of 78.

PROSAICS OF PREVENTION

That is an old proverb which says: "An ounce of prevention is worth more than a pound of cure." But it is one thing to say it and another thing to get ourselves—and our society—really to see it. Pounds of cure are far more exciting; there is no getting around that. For prevention lacks the thrill of the spectacular. Prevention is horse-and-buggy routine; cure is jet-plane experimentation with sound barriers. Someone has called attention recently to the fact that "mankind, including a large portion of the medical profession, is more deeply interested in the dramatics of a brilliant cure than in the prosaics of prevention."

Joseph Malins once said that it is "better to put a strong fence 'round the top of the cliff, than an ambulance down in the valley." But by some strange quirk of human nature it is a lot easier to arouse folks to help the ambulances roll than it is to get them behind a community project to build some fences. Everybody can see the necessity for picking people up after they have crashed over the cliff. It is much, much harder to "sell" the vision for preventive fences.

Nor is it difficult to understand why this is so. For the fence above stands a silent, inconspicious sentinel—while the ambulance below alerts the whole neighborhood with its screaming siren. Everybody knows that somebody has gone over the unguarded cliff—the noisy ambulance is rushing to the scene with its startling ministry of mercy! But nobody ever hears about those who were wonderfully delivered from a tragic need for the ambulance by the silent, unspectacular fence which someone had the vision to erect.

Seeing to it that young people are surrounded with love and guidance and the right kind of moral environment so that they are kept from "going wrong" is so much better than setting up and endowing rescue agencies that have nothing to do until someone comes tumbling down. Wasn't it Charles H. Spurgeon who said: "Saving boys is so much wiser than mending men?" This would seem to be the wise way to tackle war (the world's gravest problem) and alcoholism (our nation's number four health problem) and a thousand other problems that beset mankind.

But I suppose, since nobody has ever found a sane way to install a screeching siren on an unspectacular fence, we will go right on with our alerted enthusiasm for ambulances and our puny interest in the guard-rail projects.

President Expresses Gratitude to Donors At Musicale and Tea

More than 100 persons attended the annual Donation Day tea and musicale held Thursday afternoon at the Home for the Aged, Washington avenue. Mrs. B. H. Matteson, president, welcomed those present, expressed appreciation for the generous donations received, and explained briefly the function of the board of managers which sponsored the tea.

Although a complete report of contributions is not yet available, Mrs. Matteson indicated the total would exceed that received in former years. The "splendid cooperation given us by the local press and radio have been largely responsible for the success of this day," the president said. She also complimented the numerous committee members for their important work in connection with the event.

Mrs. George Bond of New Paltz, soprano soloist, delighted the large audience. From the opening strains of Brahms' Lullaby to a concluding encore, Drink to Me Only With Thine Eyes, Mrs. Bond received the plaudits of her listeners.

Included in the well diversified program presented by Mrs. Bond were Songs My Mother Taught Me, Dvorak; The False Prophet by John Prindle Scott; Gershwin's Summertime; Your Song from Paradise, Brown; and the Cuckoo, Liza Lehman. Mrs. Francis Smiley of Lake Mohonk, was piano accompanist. The artists were introduced by Mrs. Jacob Elting, program chairman.

A short business meeting attended by the managers was held prior to the tea.

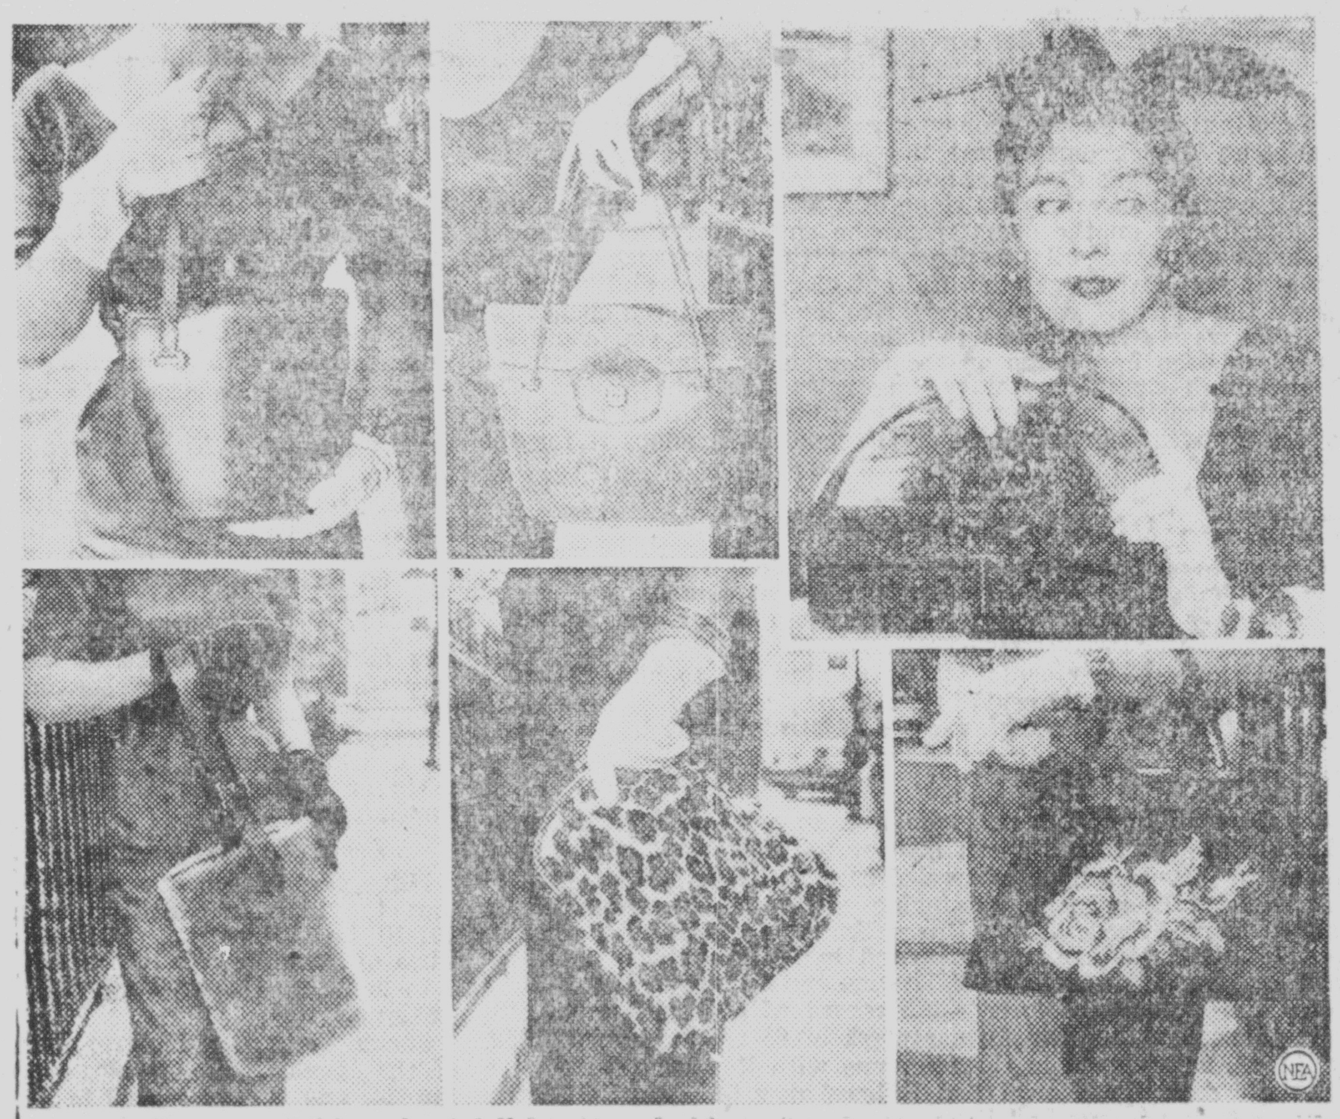
Featured in Furs and Leathers



Depth is the newest thing about fall handbag fashions. It's depth that makes for harmony with the slender fall silhouette. Closed bucket bag (upper left) is in antique amber calf, has a vibrant color tone. Grained leather satchel with slim handles (upper center) is in maple-toned calf, is lined in honey-color smooth leather. Typical of larger sizes in dressy bags for late day is elongated, sleek box (upper right) in red chiffon velvet. This is lined in blonde leather. Oversized deep bucket (lower left) is in rich silver gray mouton fur with longer than average handle in black leather. French purse (lower center) is leopard-dyed rabbit, is worn opened out, not folded over as in previous years. This is a smart bag for dressy daytime or late day wear. Dramatic satchel in giant size (lower right) is made of black wool yarn, has gros point design of single huge rose in varied shades of pink and spray of green leaves in two tones.

Well-Chosen Accessories Will Brighten Old Clothes

This smart young woman realizes that she does not need a completely new wardrobe to be right in step with fall fashions. Instead, she has taken the time to make an inventory of her present fall wardrobe (left), discarding a few items that are no longer serviceable. For the holdovers she selects accessories (center) that give a fresh, new look. To dramatize her basic suit she chooses one of the very new fur helmets, a broad gold bracelet and a pearl choker. For a really high fashion note she chooses a lipstick and nail polish that blend with her costume's color. A final blotting of the lipstick (right) and she is beautifully groomed. And her budget is intact since her expenditures have been limited to make-up and accessories.

Fenders Are Damaged In Two-Car Collision

A 1949 suburban, operated by George Phillips Cox, 29, of Olive Bridge, traveling toward Broadway on East O'Reilly street, was in collision with a 1938 sedan operated by Eleanor Krom, 49, of Rifton, at 2:38 p. m. yesterday, according to city police.

Officers Crawford Millham and Bernard J. Fowler reported that the Krom car was stopped on East O'Reilly street waiting for the light to change and that Cox attempted to pass, thinking the other car was parked.

Firemen Extinguish Brush and Leaf Fires

City firemen responded to two calls during the last 24 hours, one for a brush fire and the other for leaves burning in a gutter.

The first call came at 5:24 p. m. yesterday for a brush fire on High road off Union street. Engine 2 from Cornell Station answered.

The second call was received by telephone at 2:40 a. m. today reporting leaves burning in the gutter at 157 Mary's avenue. Central Station responded.

Treasury Halts Sale

Washington, Oct. 24 (AP) — The treasury, trying to avoid being pushed up against the legal ceiling on the national debt, has stopped selling savings notes. The notes—not be be confused with savings bonds, which can still be bought—were being snapped up by investors at a rate of more than 60 million dollars on some days. They pay 2.21 per cent interest and are used mostly by corporations which have cash reserves to invest for a short time. The treasury took them off the market last night because every time one is sold it increases the national debt. The debt subject to limit is now about 2½ billion dollars below the statutory ceiling of 275 billion. The treasury expects to use up the greater portion of that leeway next week in marketing a 2½ to 2 billion dollar bond issue.

Chrysler Buys Briggs

Detroit, Oct. 24 (AP)—Chrysler Corp. expects to acquire all auto body and parts making plants of the Briggs Manufacturing Co. within the next 60 days for 35 million dollars. President L. L. Colbert of Chrysler said officials of both firms already have agreed on the purchase, but that approval must be obtained from Briggs stockholders. Briggs' 12 major plants in the Detroit area normally employ from 35,000 to 40,000 workers and its acquisition by Chrysler will make Chrysler the largest employer in the Detroit area with 130,000 to 140,000. Ford, now the largest, has 100,000 to 110,000.

Drouth Break Seen

Washington, Oct. 24 (AP)—Weather officials voice hopes that the drouth—worst in history in some parts of the United States—may break up soon. Some rain has already fallen in parts of the southwest and midwest and Jerome Namias, chief of long range weather forecasters, said yesterday: "The storm area has a good chance of coming east." The forecasters, interviewed yesterday, hesitated to say whether this would be the end, or only an interruption, of the long drouth that began developing in 1951.

She inherits one-twelfth of the estate after certain specific bequests are distributed. The estate was appraised today at $33,803, gross, and $30,954, net value. The Mount Vernon woman died Nov. 11, 1952, at the age of 78.

PROSAICS OF PREVENTION

That is an old proverb which says: "An ounce of prevention is worth more than a pound of cure." But it is one thing to say it and another thing to get ourselves—and our society—really to see it. Pounds of cure are far more exciting; there is no getting around that. For prevention lacks the thrill of the spectacular. Prevention is horse-and-buggy routine; cure is jet-plane experimentation with sound barriers. Someone has called attention recently to the fact that "mankind, including a large portion of the medical profession, is more deeply interested in the dramatics of a brilliant cure than in the prosaics of prevention."

Joseph Malins once said that it is "better to put a strong fence 'round the top of the cliff, than an ambulance down in the valley." But by some strange quirk of human nature it is a lot easier to arouse folks to help the ambulances roll than it is to get them behind a community project to build some fences. Everybody can see the necessity for picking people up after they have crashed over the cliff. It is much, much harder to "sell" the vision for preventive fences.

Nor is it difficult to understand why this is so. For the fence above stands a silent, inconspicious sentinel—while the ambulance below alerts the whole neighborhood with its screaming siren. Everybody knows that somebody has gone over the unguarded cliff—the noisy ambulance is rushing to the scene with its startling ministry of mercy! But nobody ever hears about those who were wonderfully delivered from a tragic need for the ambulance by the silent, unspectacular fence which someone had the vision to erect.

Seeing to it that young people are surrounded with love and guidance and the right kind of moral environment so that they are kept from "going wrong" is so much better than setting up and endowing rescue agencies that have nothing to do until someone comes tumbling down. Wasn't it Charles H. Spurgeon who said: "Saving boys is so much wiser than mending men?" This would seem to be the wise way to tackle war (the world's gravest problem) and alcoholism (our nation's number four health problem) and a thousand other problems that beset mankind.

But I suppose, since nobody has ever found a sane way to install a screeching siren on an unspectacular fence, we will go right on with our alerted enthusiasm for ambulances and our puny interest in the guard-rail projects.

Syracuse Due To Host IRA's 1954 Regatta

Syracuse is the leading contender for the 1954 Intercollegiate Rowing Association regatta, a member of the Board of Stewards revealed Friday at Poughkeepsie.

Poughkeepsie was the traditional site of the regatta until it was transferred to Marietta, Ohio, then to Syracuse.

"Of course, in my position I cannot be quoted," the college official said, "but I would say that Syracuse is the probable site of the races for next year."

A decision on the site of the 51st IRA regatta will be made at a meeting of the Board of Stewards Dec. 8 in New York ctiy.

"A decision will not be reached until the Dec. 8 meeting," the steward said, "but from here it looks like Syracuse will be the place. The city handled the regatta very well for two years and the coaches seemed satisfied as to conditions."

He confirmed reports that the Syracuse committee was "disappointed" with attendance and the financial return and pointed out, "Nobody is ever going to get rich by staging the regatta."

Youth Is Injured

Warren Hull, 14, was injured about 12:25 p. m. Friday when his coaster wagon swerved in front of an automobile driven by his older brother near their home on the Berme road a mile and a half north of Ellenville, state police reported. The brother, Robert, 23, was driving north on the road at about 20 miles an hour, when he approached Warren coasting along the road on his wagon, he told troopers. The wagon suddenly swerved acrosss the pavement and was struck by the automobile, according to the report. Warren was treated by Dr. Charles Rosenstock for concussion, abraisions to the back of his head and a left shoulder injury, troopers said. He was then taken to Veterans Memorial Hospital for examination and further treatment and was released. No arrest was made.

Big Sal Misasi Glasco Pitcher Signed by Brooks

Big Sal Misasi, the crack Saugerties High School athlete, has signed a Brooklyn Dodger contract and will be assigned next June to Hornell in the Class D Pony League.

The Glasco pitcher-slugger was signed by Joe Thomas, Brooklyn scout for the Albany area. He is reported to have received a bonus but the amount was not disclosed.

Misasi's break came after he was scouted by Thomas at a night game this past summer between the Whiz Kids and Cementon. That night he was outstanding on the mound and at the plate as well.

The big fellow, who is known as "Moose" played City League ball with Jones Dairy. He is one of the finest athletes in Saugerties High School history.

While he was still in the Glasco elementary school, he was sought after by many of the area semi-pro teams. He twice suffered an arm injury but appears to have recovered full use of his pitching wing. His hitting has been tremendous the past couple years.

Because of his age, he's 19, he is not eligible for sports at Saugerties this year. He will report to Hornell immedicately upon graduation next June.

Racing Official Won't Quit His Senate Job

Batavia, Oct. 24 (AP)—Pat E. Provenzano, president and general manager of the Genesee Monroe Racing Association which operates Batavia Downs, says he does not intend to quit his job as assistant secretary of the state Senate.

Provenzano made the statement to newsmen who asked him last night if he planned to resign the post as a result of the current probe of harness racing in the state..

The Rochester Republican said if he quit his state job "people will think there's something wrong." He said he would be on hand for the special session of the Senate Nov. 17, at which acting Lt. Gov. Arthur H. Wicks has said he would submit his resignation.

Provenzano said there was no connection between his state job and the race track.

"If there were, do you think Batavia Downs would be racing late in October: We'd have choice summer dates."

Racing at the track began this year on Aug. 3 and will end Oct. 31.

Provenzano was first appointed to his Senate job in 1943 by the then Senate Majority Leader Joe R. Hanley, the job pays $7,480 a year.

Provenzano has also been listed as a stockholder in the Yonkers Raceway.

"Fantastic" appeared to be the general reaction of visiting coaches and basketball officials to the dazzling setup at the Kate Walton Field House this week.

"It's unbelievably beautiful, outstrips most of the college gyms where I played," said Ernie Downer, the former Gray Ghost of mid-Hudson semi-pro baseball fame. Ernie, more corpulent and thinning on top, played for the Big Red of Cornell.

What a thrill high school and city fans have in store for them when Kingston High plays its first basketball game of the season. The prediction here is that an all-time local record for attendance will be set that night.

• Flotsam and Jetsam:

Hal Wittner, the Union College athletic director who addressed the assembled officials and coaches on officiating technique made a terrific impression. "Just what our gang needed," said an unidentified arbiter. Like a top sergeant, but in restrained and impeccable English, he gave the boys the facts of life. "If you're in this business (basketball officiating) just for the money, then you better get out now," he admonished. Wittner emphasized the necessity for cooperation between the two officials at all times as the secret of proper officiating. He said it would be a wonderful thing of a referee could pick out that one mythical spot on the court where he could just stay anchored, weave a bit and cover all the plays. "But there's no such spot," he warned, "so you have to get the lead out of your shoes and hustle up and down the court. If you don't want to hustle, then you should get out." Those were strong words to fellow arbiters but you could see they made a deep impression on the assemblage. The basketball fan won't see much change in the playing rules this time around. The colleges have decided to soft-pedal calls on backcourt fouls and if the experiment proves successful, the high schools will adopt it for the 1954-55 season.

• Even the Offense Is Taxed:

Coach Forest Evashekvski of Iowa was asked what type of offense Michigan State would feature in a recent game.

"It'll be 70 per cent Michigan single wing, 15 per cent Split-T 13 per cent Straight-T," Evashevski answered.

"That's only 98 per cent," it was pointed out to him. "What about the other two per cent?"

"Sales tax," the Hawkeye coach said straight-faced.

• Of Men and Mice:

Libby Manzolillo, of Liberty, who was an amateur boxing sensation here in the last run of the simon pures, is just out of the navy and about to resume a double-barreled career—boxer and singer. According to Nick Kenny, Libby's singing career will be sponsored by the famed comic, Fred Allen. Harry Smith, the former Berkshire Buzzsaw of the same era, has appeared in 16 preliminary bouts at Eastern Parkway with a record of 11 wins and 5 defeats. Ray Billows shattered the Dutchess Country Club record with a spectacular six-under-par, breaking his own former mark of 65 set in August, 1952. Hank Kowal, who played in the foursome with Ray that day shot a 66. A couple days ago, Kowal tied Billows' new 64. Big Sal Misasi has a great future in baseball if he concentrates and hustles. The big Glasco kid has more raw power than any youngster we've seen in years and is fast for a big man, all the requisites to make major league mentors drool.

Officials of the Little League Association and the Fraternal Youth League have expressed concern about the lack of cooperation of the players and families in returning the uniforms used in the 1953 season. Just a few days ago, Harry L. Edson pointed out that although the campaign ended several weeks ago less than 10 FYL uniforms had been returned for the cleaning and storing process so vital for their upkeep. The situation in the Little League isn't quite as serious but there is still outstanding a majority of the uniforms. Any boy who played in either league and certainly the parents should see that these uniforms are returned at the earliest possible date.

People who don't play good don't know what they're missing. But the golfers do. The ball!

Trustful Hanover Cops Dobbs Purse

Yonkers, Oct. 24 (AP)—Trustful Hanover, owned by C. M. Myers and L. B. Sheppard of Hanover, Pa., broke the world record for 3-year old pacing fillies over a half-mile track last night when she stepped a mile in 2:02 to win the $6,000 Dobbs Ferry Purse at Yonkers Raceway.

The clocking took one-fifth off the standard established by Tassel Hanover at Saratoga Springs, in 1950.

Hugh Bell piloted Trustful Hanover to the new mark as Adois Boy, highly regarded 2-year-old, broke stride behind the mobile starting gate and finished fifth as the odds-on-choice of the crowd of 22,412. It was Adois Boy's first start in older company.

Howard Camden, eager to get Adois Boy away from the outside seventh position, tried to rush the champion 2-year-old. This effort caused Adois Boy to break stride and the field was around the first turn before he returned to his gait.

The Hanover filly paid $13.70, $6.10 and $4.80.

Woman Is Bowling's Biggest Drawing Card; Marion Ladewig Is Better Than Most Men

Marion Ladewig

Marion Ladewig can be compared only with a nuclear explosion.

The Grand Rapids, Mich., grandmother is without a doubt the greatest woman bowler of all time. A four-time National Women's match game champion, the pretty, trim and talented shotmaker has smashed more records than you can shake at sick at

Even the men keglers, who hardly do more than clear their throat when asked to discuss the distaff side, admit she is something extra special.

"She's better than most of the fellows around today," testified Joe Wilman, the Hall-of-Famer. "It's a good thing for them that she's a woman and can't shoot in men's tournaments."

Mrs. Ladewig shines like a diamond at high noon in tournament play. In Chicago last December, for example, she averaged 204 breezing to her fourth straight title.

In the 1951 edition of the same production,. she. opened. with games of 255 and 279, a women's two-game record of 534. Several hours later she added scores of 247, 247 and 224. That night she closed with 255 and 247, an eight-game total of 1981. .That's a 247 average.

"Absolutely unbelievable," muttered Ned Day, one of the all-time greats.

Making it more remarkable Mrs. Ladewig was suffering from an acute case of bursitis in her right shoulder and had to be talked into competing.

The Gal Is Now 39

To a timid question, Mrs. Ladewig replies readily that her age is 39.

"I don't mind being asked," she smiles, adding, "only sometimes they say I'm 40 and that burns me up."

Marion Ladewig is in as much demand as Marilyn Monroe at an autograph party. The demands for her exhibitions and clinics is greater than that of any of the famous men bowlers.

This amazing woman travels more than 25,000 miles a year giving exhibitions, is paid $100 a day. She averages $15,000 a year. Despite these cross-country tours, Mrs. Ladewig finds time to average six practice games daily. She generally tries to bowl alone, concentrates on technique and works on weaknesses.

"It's too distracting bowling with another person during these sessions," she explains.

Petite But Powerful

At 5 feet 4 and 125 pounds, Mrs. Ladewig is built more like an artist's model, yet whips a regular man's 16-pound ball down the alley. Deadly accurate, she banks on a short hook, seldom misses the 1-3 pocket, picks up spares totally dead center.

When home Mrs. Ladewig shoots five nights a week in five different Grand Rapids Leagues, averaging more than 200.

Quiet and unassuming, Mrs. Ladewig, endeavoring to get over shyness, took a course in public speaking. It not only made a better public speaker out of her, but her game improved, too.. At the end of a 16-week course, she resumed bowling in a league. In her first appearance in the circuit since starting the course, she banged out a smashing 735.

There was a time, you'll recall when women weren't permitted in a bowling emporium.

Marion Ladewig has caused not a few to wish that old edict still applied.

Langlois Purse Held Up After Loss to Panter

New York, Oct. 24—Here you are folks, read all about the new French mystery, "Cherchez La Flu."

Did Pierre Langlois of France have the flu last night when he lost a split 10-round decision to Garth Panter in Madison Square Garden. Well, he did and he didn't.

"Pierre had the bad cold—the flu—yesterday," said co-manager Jean Bretonnel. "But we did not wish to—how you say—disappoint monsieur Billy Brown. (Garden matchmaker)."

As George Kantor picked up the same chanson (song), and Langlois sat with his head down on a rubbing table, in came Dr. Vincent Nardiello, the New York State Athletic Commission physician, accompanied by Dan Dowd, executive secretary of the commission.

"Flu? Nuts," said the irate doctor. "He was in perfect physical condition, no temperature, no flu, no cold."

Kantor, alarmed at the sudden turn of events, said, "no, it wasn't the flu. Just a cold."

'Nuts' Said the Dr.

"Cold? Nuts," shouted the doctor as he stomped out.

"Fellows, it wasn't any cold," said Kantor to boxing writers. "He was in good shape. He just had heavy legs."

Dowd, who had remained in the room, walked to the co-managers and talked to them a few minutes before he walked out.

Then the word came that Langlois' purse had been held up and a hearing set for Monday morning at 11 a. m. (EST).

Asked if this report was true, Bretonnel shook his head sadly. "Yes, it is big mistake. He was in fine condition."

The body punching Panter from Salt Lake City took the votes of the judges, Artie Aidala and Harold Barnes, 5-4-1. Referee Ray Miller had Langlois on top 5-4-1. The AP card was 5-5.

Langlois who weighed 157¾ was a 1 to 3 favorite over Panter, 159.

Durando Kayoes Humez in Sixth

Paris, Oct. 24 (AP)—Ernie (The Rock) Durando, who scored a six-round knockout over Charley Humez last night, is willing to give the rugged Frenchman a return bout in France.

The Bayonne, N. J., belter suffered cuts above and below his right eye and his manager, Al Weill, said today that the bout will have to wait, however, until the cuts are healed.

As result of the victory, Durando also was well up in the running for a crack at Carl (Bobo) Olson's new middleweight title.

Ernie dumped Humez with a hard left and right to the jaw in the sixth round. He took the count on one knee and jumped up at the count of ten. It was then too late.

Henry Davis on TV

Chicago, Oct. 24 (AP) With a possible shot at lightweight king Jimmy Carter in the offing for the winner, Henry Davis of Honolulu and Arthur Persley of Red Cross, La., square off tonight in a ten-round boxing bout. The Rainbow Arena feature will be televised nationally (ABC) at 9 p. m., EST.

Syracuse Due To Host IRA's 1954 Regatta

Syracuse is the leading contender for the 1954 Intercollegiate Rowing Association regatta, a member of the Board of Stewards revealed Friday at Poughkeepsie.

Poughkeepsie was the traditional site of the regatta until it was transferred to Marietta, Ohio, then to Syracuse.

"Of course, in my position I cannot be quoted," the college official said, "but I would say that Syracuse is the probable site of the races for next year."

A decision on the site of the 51st IRA regatta will be made at a meeting of the Board of Stewards Dec. 8 in New York ctiy.

"A decision will not be reached until the Dec. 8 meeting," the steward said, "but from here it looks like Syracuse will be the place. The city handled the regatta very well for two years and the coaches seemed satisfied as to conditions."

He confirmed reports that the Syracuse committee was "disappointed" with attendance and the financial return and pointed out, "Nobody is ever going to get rich by staging the regatta."

Friday when his coaster wagon swerved in front of an automobile driven by his older brother near their home on the Berme road a mile and a half north of Ellenville, state police reported. The brother, Robert, 23, was driving north on the road at about 20 miles an hour, when he approached Warren coasting along the road on his wagon, he told troopers. The wagon suddenly swerved acrosss the pavement and was struck by the automobile, according to the report. Warren was treated by Dr. Charles Rosenstock for concussion, abraisions to the back of his head and a left shoulder injury, troopers said. He was then taken to Veterans Memorial Hospital for examination and further treatment and was released. No arrest was made.

Big Sal Misasi Glasco Pitcher Signed by Brooks

Big Sal Misasi, the crack Saugerties High School athlete, has signed a Brooklyn Dodger contract and will be assigned next June to Hornell in the Class D Pony League.

The Glasco pitcher-slugger was signed by Joe Thomas, Brooklyn scout for the Albany area. He is reported to have received a bonus but the amount was not disclosed.

Misasi's break came after he was scouted by Thomas at a night game this past summer between the Whiz Kids and Cementon. That night he was outstanding on the mound and at the plate as well.

The big fellow, who is known as "Moose" played City League ball with Jones Dairy. He is one of the finest athletes in Saugerties High School history.

While he was still in the Glasco elementary school, he was sought after by many of the area semi-pro teams. He twice suffered an arm injury but appears to have recovered full use of his pitching wing. His hitting has been tremendous the past couple years.

Because of his age, he's 19, he is not eligible for sports at Saugerties this year. He will report to Hornell immedicately upon graduation next June.

Racing Official Won't Quit His Senate Job

Batavia, Oct. 24 (AP)—Pat E. Provenzano, president and general manager of the Genesee Monroe Racing Association which operates Batavia Downs, says he does not intend to quit his job as assistant secretary of the state Senate.

Provenzano made the statement to newsmen who asked him last night if he planned to resign the post as a result of the current probe of harness racing in the state..

The Rochester Republican said if he quit his state job "people will think there's something wrong." He said he would be on hand for the special session of the Senate Nov. 17, at which acting Lt. Gov. Arthur H. Wicks has said he would submit his resignation.

Provenzano said there was no connection between his state job and the race track.

"If there were, do you think Batavia Downs would be racing late in October: We'd have choice summer dates."

Racing at the track began this year on Aug. 3 and will end Oct. 31.

Provenzano was first appointed to his Senate job in 1943 by the then Senate Majority Leader Joe R. Hanley, the job pays $7,480 a year.

Provenzano has also been listed as a stockholder in the Yonkers Raceway.

"Fantastic" appeared to be the general reaction of visiting coaches and basketball officials to the dazzling setup at the Kate Walton Field House this week.

"It's unbelievably beautiful, outstrips most of the college gyms where I played," said Ernie Downer, the former Gray Ghost of mid-Hudson semi-pro baseball fame. Ernie, more corpulent and thinning on top, played for the Big Red of Cornell.

What a thrill high school and city fans have in store for them when Kingston High plays its first basketball game of the season. The prediction here is that an all-time local record for attendance will be set that night.

• Flotsam and Jetsam:

Hal Wittner, the Union College athletic director who addressed the assembled officials and coaches on officiating technique made a terrific impression. "Just what our gang needed," said an unidentified arbiter. Like a top sergeant, but in restrained and impeccable English, he gave the boys the facts of life. "If you're in this business (basketball officiating) just for the money, then you better get out now," he admonished. Wittner emphasized the necessity for cooperation between the two officials at all times as the secret of proper officiating. He said it would be a wonderful thing of a referee could pick out that one mythical spot on the court where he could just stay anchored, weave a bit and cover all the plays. "But there's no such spot," he warned, "so you have to get the lead out of your shoes and hustle up and down the court. If you don't want to hustle, then you should get out." Those were strong words to fellow arbiters but you could see they made a deep impression on the assemblage. The basketball fan won't see much change in the playing rules this time around. The colleges have decided to soft-pedal calls on backcourt fouls and if the experiment proves successful, the high schools will adopt it for the 1954-55 season.

• Even the Offense Is Taxed:

Coach Forest Evashekvski of Iowa was asked what type of offense Michigan State would feature in a recent game.

"It'll be 70 per cent Michigan single wing, 15 per cent Split-T 13 per cent Straight-T," Evashevski answered.

"That's only 98 per cent," it was pointed out to him. "What about the other two per cent?"

"Sales tax," the Hawkeye coach said straight-faced.

• Of Men and Mice:

Libby Manzolillo, of Liberty, who was an amateur boxing sensation here in the last run of the simon pures, is just out of the navy and about to resume a double-barreled career—boxer and singer. According to Nick Kenny, Libby's singing career will be sponsored by the famed comic, Fred Allen. Harry Smith, the former Berkshire Buzzsaw of the same era, has appeared in 16 preliminary bouts at Eastern Parkway with a record of 11 wins and 5 defeats. Ray Billows shattered the Dutchess Country Club record with a spectacular six-under-par, breaking his own former mark of 65 set in August, 1952. Hank Kowal, who played in the foursome with Ray that day shot a 66. A couple days ago, Kowal tied Billows' new 64. Big Sal Misasi has a great future in baseball if he concentrates and hustles. The big Glasco kid has more raw power than any youngster we've seen in years and is fast for a big man, all the requisites to make major league mentors drool.

Officials of the Little League Association and the Fraternal Youth League have expressed concern about the lack of cooperation of the players and families in returning the uniforms used in the 1953 season. Just a few days ago, Harry L. Edson pointed out that although the campaign ended several weeks ago less than 10 FYL uniforms had been returned for the cleaning and storing process so vital for their upkeep. The situation in the Little League isn't quite as serious but there is still outstanding a majority of the uniforms. Any boy who played in either league and certainly the parents should see that these uniforms are returned at the earliest possible date.

People who don't play good don't know what they're missing. But the golfers do. The ball!

Trustful Hanover Cops Dobbs Purse

Yonkers, Oct. 24 (AP)—Trustful Hanover, owned by C. M. Myers and L. B. Sheppard of Hanover, Pa., broke the world record for 3-year old pacing fillies over a half-mile track last night when she stepped a mile in 2:02 to win the $6,000 Dobbs Ferry Purse at Yonkers Raceway.

The clocking took one-fifth off the standard established by Tassel Hanover at Saratoga Springs, in 1950.

Hugh Bell piloted Trustful Hanover to the new mark as Adois Boy, highly regarded 2-year-old, broke stride behind the mobile starting gate and finished fifth as the odds-on-choice of the crowd of 22,412. It was Adois Boy's first start in older company.

Howard Camden, eager to get Adois Boy away from the outside seventh position, tried to rush the champion 2-year-old. This effort caused Adois Boy to break stride and the field was around the first turn before he returned to his gait.

The Hanover filly paid $13.70, $6.10 and $4.80.

Marion Ladewig

Durando Kayoes Humez in Sixth

Paris, Oct. 24 (AP)—Ernie (The Rock) Durando, who scored a six-round knockout over Charley Humez last night, is willing to give the rugged Frenchman a return bout in France.

The Bayonne, N. J., belter suffered cuts above and below his right eye and his manager, Al Weill, said today that the bout will have to wait, however, until the cuts are healed.

As result of the victory, Durando also was well up in the running for a crack at Carl (Bobo) Olson's new middleweight title.

Ernie dumped Humez with a hard left and right to the jaw in the sixth round. He took the count on one knee and jumped up at the count of ten. It was then too late.

Henry Davis on TV

Chicago, Oct. 24 (AP) With a possible shot at lightweight king Jimmy Carter in the offing for the winner, Henry Davis of Honolulu and Arthur Persley of Red Cross, La., square off tonight in a ten-round boxing bout. The Rainbow Arena feature will be televised nationally (ABC) at 9 p. m., EST.

Marion Ladewig can be compared only with a nuclear explosion.

The Grand Rapids, Mich., grandmother is without a doubt the greatest woman bowler of all time. A four-time National Women's match game champion, the pretty, trim and talented shotmaker has smashed more records than you can shake at sick at

Even the men keglers, who hardly do more than clear their throat when asked to discuss the distaff side, admit she is something extra special.

"She's better than most of the fellows around today," testified Joe Wilman, the Hall-of-Famer. "It's a good thing for them that she's a woman and can't shoot in men's tournaments."

Mrs. Ladewig shines like a diamond at high noon in tournament play. In Chicago last December, for example, she averaged 204 breezing to her fourth straight title.

In the 1951 edition of the same production, she opened with games of 255 and 279, a women's two-game record of 534. Several hours later she added scores of 247, 247 and 224. That night she closed with 255 and 247, an eight-game total of 1981. That's a 247 average.

"Absolutely unbelievable," muttered Ned Day, one of the all-time greats.

The Gal Is Now 39

To a timid question, Mrs. Ladewig replies readily that her age is 39.

"I don't mind being asked," she smiles, adding, "only sometimes they say I'm 40 and that burns me up."

Marion Ladewig is in as much demand as Marilyn Monroe at an autograph party. The demands for her exhibitions and clinics is greater than that of any of the famous men bowlers.

This amazing woman travels more than 25,000 miles a year giving exhibitions, is paid $100 a day. She averages $15,000 a year. Despite these cross-country tours, Mrs. Ladewig finds time to average six practice games daily. She generally tries to bowl alone, concentrates on technique and works on weaknesses.

"It's too distracting bowling with another person during these sessions," she explains.

Petite But Powerful

At 5 feet 4 and 125 pounds, Mrs. Ladewig is built more like an artist's model, yet whips a regular man's 16-pound ball down the alley. Deadly accurate, she banks on a short hook, seldom misses the 1-3 pocket, picks up spares totally dead center.

When home Mrs. Ladewig shoots five nights a week in five different Grand Rapids Leagues, averaging more than 200.

Quiet and unassuming, Mrs. Ladewig, endeavoring to get over shyness, took a course in public speaking. It not only made a better public speaker out of her, but her game improved, too. At the end of a 16-week course, she resumed bowling in a league. In her first appearance in the circuit since starting the course, she banged out a smashing 735.

There was a time, you'll recall when women weren't permitted in a bowling emporium.

Marion Ladewig has caused not a few to wish that old edict still applied.

Schinagle Gets Life

Upper Sandusky, Ohio, Oct. 24 (AP) — The Cynthia Pfeil murder case came to an abrupt end today when the college boy accused of beating her to death pleaded guilty to a second-degree murder charge and was sentenced immediately to life in Ohio Penitentiary. Roy Roger Schinagle, Jr., 19, of Mayfield Heights, Ohio, the Ohio Wesleyan University student originally charged with first-degree murder, stood silent in the court room, his face expressionless, as his attorney and Prosecuting Attorney Harold D. Ross settled the affair with the court. Schinagle had been indicted recently on a first-degree murder charge and came into court today for arraignment on the indictment. The change in charge and plea all took only about 10 minutes.

One Witness Named

New York, Oct. 24 (AP)—Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis) says the firing of 20 civilians from the army's radar center at Ft. Monmouth, N. J., shows "a very encouraging tightening up of the security setup." McCarthy's Senate Permanent Investigations subcommittee has been probing alleged Communist subversion of civilian workers at the Ft. Monmouth laboratories. As the closed hearings continued yesterday, McCarthy for the first time identified a witness—Mrs. Elba Chase Nelson, former Communist candidate for governor of New Hampshire. The senator said he named Mrs. Nelson because several newsmen recognized her when she left the hearing room and indicated they would publish her name.

Wall Street to Be Angel St. Monday

For two days next week the City of Kingston will have a new street, temporary in nature and name, but reflecting an ingenious public relations campaign by the publicity committee of the Coach House Players.

The dates are Wednesday and Thursday, Oct. 28-29, and by sheer coincidence the new name of the block on Wall street between Elizabeth street and Linderman avenue will be Angel Street for a 48-hour period.

Those happen to be the same days on which the Players' new drama Angel Street will be presented at the George Washington School at 8:30 p. m.

A special ceremony celebrating the re-naming of the block is scheduled Monday afternoon, with the special blessing of Acting Mayor Joe Kelly. The Common Council has not authorized change of the name and Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk is absent from the city on business. But both could be expected to approve the originality of the Coach House Players publicity campaign.

Street signs designating the area as Angel Street will be displayed during the two days and then removed following the final performance of the play next Thursday, the publicity committee announced today.

Fire Victim Still On Critical List

Marguerite Mead, 43, who was severely burned in a fire in a lean-to on the Benton Corners-Bruynswick road early Friday morning, was still on the critical list at Kingston Hospital this morning, authorities there reported.

State police at Highland reported yesterday that the woman suffered second and third degree burns in a fire of unknown origin on the Emmett Williams property about 1:45 a. m. Williams and another man, identified as Tom Irving, may have received minor burns in the same blaze, but did not require treatment, according to members of the Shawangunk Fire Company.

A state police investigation into the cause of the fire and circumstances leading up to it was conducted, but troopers said this morning there have been "no further developments."

Spy Mystery Deepens

Frankfurt, Germany, Oct. 24 —Mystery deepened today around a Soviet spy suspect held in "special security custody" somewhere in West Germany. The U. S. High Commission, which made the terse announcement yesterday that Georgii Vladimirovich Khorumzhii, alias Georg Mueller of Frankfurt, was being held for investigation of espionage, refused further comment. Army headquarters at Heidelberg said they know nothing about the case and that it was a matter being handled by the high commission.

Western Senator

nating.

Benson's telegram said he could not see how a conference with "such a large number of people" could accomplish anything. He suggested regional gatherings at which top Agriculture Department spokesman could appear.

Failing that, he said, "I would be glad to meet with a small workable group in Washington who can represent the views of the 250 in the proposed caravan."

The caravan, assembled from more than 20 west and midwest states, was due in Washington sometime Sunday.

Stephen A. Mitchell, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, and Sen. Russell (D.-Ga.) attacked the administration's farm policies in statements yesterday.

Russell told newsmen in Atlanta that farm income has dropped 1½ billion dollars because of "bumbling" by Benson. Mitchell told Kansas City Democratic party leaders that farm communities "fear that the administration's farm and economic policies may lead us to hard times."

At his news conference last Thursday, Eisenhower defended Benson against criticism, saying the secretary was a dedicated man.

At the same time, the President said he never had promised price supports at 100 per cent of parity. He said the aim of any decent farm program is to get farmers on the basis where the prices they get for their crops are comparable to the prices they pay for things they buy.

At Kasson on Sept. 6, 1952, Eisenhower said he stood behind the present 90 per cent parity supports, adding:

"All I know of farmers convinces me that they would rather earn their fair share than have it as a government handout. And a fair share is not merely 90 per cent of parity but full parity."

Mansfield said this has been widely interpreted and accepted by most farmers as a pledge eventually to attain 100 per cent parity supports.

"I favor full price supports and the sooner we get them the better off I believe the country will be," Mansfield declared.

George said he thinks that after the administration gets through studying the agricultural problem:

"I think they are going to recommend continuation of 90 per cent supports and their program won't be too radically different from that of the Democrats."

Settlement Reached In Negligence Case

Settlement was reached in a negligence action in Supreme Court Friday afternoon brought by Meyer Roseff and others against M. & W. Trucking Company and Jack Heiferman, an action arising out of an accident near Spring Glen. Louis Berger and Abraham Streifer appeared for plaintiffs and Arthur E. Ames for defendant.

A jury was taken and the case of Charles Frischling against Rubin and William Cohen, negligence, was commenced. This is an action arising out of a motor car accident near Ellenville. Kooperman & Kooperman for plaintiff and Donald H. McCann for defendants.

Settled was a negligence action brought by George Sisti and Francis Sisti against Burger's Furniture Store. Michael Nardone for plaintiff and Charley H. Gaffney for defendant, and a negligence action brought by Samuel R. Black against Paul August. Philip Korn for plaintiff and Charles H. Gaffney for defendant.

Court recessed until Monday at 10 a. m. when additions to the day calendar will be made.

Schirick May . . .

to the attention of Judge Schirick by attorneys in the case and it then became known Schirick was not holding a special term Tuesday.

A new show cause order may be obtained which could place the matter before another Justice on Monday. Both Justice Bookstein and Justice Roscoe V. Elsworth will be hearing special term matters on Monday. Justice Bookstein is holding a combined trial and special term in Sullivan county on Monday and Justice Elsworth is holding a combination trial and special term in Schoharie county on Monday. In both these counties special terms are held on Monday in connection with the trial terms.

Refusal Likely

The matter could be moved before either of those justices on a new order to show cause. Whether this will be done or whether the attorney general will waive jurisdiction and appear on Tuesday before Justice Schirick depends on the attitude taken today by the attorney general's office. Indications, however, point to a refusal to waive jurisdiction since there are apparently questions of law involved other than just the error in having the show cause order made returnable at a time when there is no special term being held.

'A' Sub Nearly Finished

Groton, Conn., Oct. 24 (AP)—The first atom-engined submarine, fantastic in possibilities but prosaic in outward appearance, is taking shape swiftly. Already her thick steel hull is being packed with the fission-fired steam plant that is expected to send the USS Nautilus farther, faster and deeper than any submersible ever built. Navy officials overseeing the building of the Nautilus at the Electric Boat Division of General Dynamics Corp. tell reporters that the atom sub is "well over 50 per cent complete."

Quiet Weekend Ahead

Washington, Oct. 24 (AP)—President and Mrs. Eisenhower arranged today to spend a quiet week-end at Camp David in the Catoctin Mountains near Thurmont, Md.

No. 1 in a series of RARE CREATURES:

THE WALKY GAWKY. . . she shops on fiery feet!

A WALKY GAWKY is a customer who shops before she reads a newspaper.

She hot-foots it from store to store looking for the things she wants to buy — straining her eyes and burning up her shoes.

Fortunately the WALKY GAWKY is a rare bird — almost extinct. Because practically all women everywhere read their newspapers before they shop. It's easier on the feet that way — as well as the pocketbook.

When a woman picks up the paper, she's looking for all that's going on in her town now. In the stores as well as in the streets and schools. At the counters as well as at the women's club and the court house.

That's why people who have something to sell depend on the newspaper to help 'em sell it fast.

That's why the newspaper comes first — with the most advertisers who want to make sales fast!

All business is local . . . and so are all newspapers!

Schinagle Gets Life

Upper Sandusky, Ohio, Oct. 24 (AP) — The Cynthia Pfeil murder case came to an abrupt end today when the college boy accused of beating her to death pleaded guilty to a second-degree murder charge and was sentenced immediately to life in Ohio Penitentiary. Roy Roger Schinagle, Jr., 19, of Mayfield Heights, Ohio, the Ohio Wesleyan University student originally charged with first-degree murder, stood silent in the court room, his face expressionless, as his attorney and Prosecuting Attorney Harold D. Ross settled the affair with the court. Schinagle had been indicted recently on a first-degree murder charge and came into court today for arraignment on the indictment. The change in charge and plea all took only about 10 minutes.

One Witness Named

New York, Oct. 24 (AP)—Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis) says the firing of 20 civilians from the army's radar center at Ft. Monmouth, N. J., shows "a very encouraging tightening up of the security setup." McCarthy's Senate Permanent Investigations subcommittee has been probing alleged Communist subversion of civilian workers at the Ft. Monmouth laboratories. As the closed hearings continued yesterday, McCarthy for the first time identified a witness—Mrs. Elba Chase Nelson, former Communist candidate for governor of New Hampshire. The senator said he named Mrs. Nelson because several newsmen recognized her when she left the hearing room and indicated they would publish her name.

Wall Street to Be Angel St. Monday

For two days next week the City of Kingston will have a new street, temporary in nature and name, but reflecting an ingenious public relations campaign by the publicity committee of the Coach House Players.

The dates are Wednesday and Thursday, Oct. 28-29, and by sheer coincidence the new name of the block on Wall street between Elizabeth street and Linderman avenue will be Angel Street for a 48-hour period.

Those happen to be the same days on which the Players' new drama Angel Street will be presented at the George Washington School at 8:30 p. m.

A special ceremony celebrating the re-naming of the block is scheduled Monday afternoon, with the special blessing of Acting Mayor Joe Kelly. The Common Council has not authorized change of the name and Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk is absent from the city on business. But both could be expected to approve the originality of the Coach House Players publicity campaign.

Street signs designating the area as Angel Street will be displayed during the two days and then removed following the final performance of the play next Thursday, the publicity committee announced today.

Fire Victim Still On Critical List

Marguerite Mead, 43, who was severely burned in a fire in a lean-to on the Benton Corners-Bruynswick road early Friday morning, was still on the critical list at Kingston Hospital this morning, authorities there reported.

State police at Highland reported yesterday that the woman suffered second and third degree burns in a fire of unknown origin on the Emmett Williams property about 1:45 a. m. Williams and another man, identified as Tom Irving, may have received minor burns in the same blaze, but did not require treatment, according to members of the Shawangunk Fire Company.

A state police investigation into the cause of the fire and circumstances leading up to it was conducted, but troopers said this morning there have been "no further developments."

Spy Mystery Deepens

Frankfurt, Germany, Oct. 24 —Mystery deepened today around a Soviet spy suspect held in "special security custody" somewhere in West Germany. The U. S. High Commission, which made the terse announcement yesterday that Georgii Vladimirovich Khorumzhii, alias Georg Mueller of Frankfurt, was being held for investigation of espionage, refused further comment. Army headquarters at Heidelberg said they know nothing about the case and that it was a matter being handled by the high commission.

Western Senator

nating.

Benson's telegram said he could not see how a conference with "such a large number of people" could accomplish anything. He suggested regional gatherings at which top Agriculture Department spokesman could appear.

Failing that, he said, "I would be glad to meet with a small workable group in Washington who can represent the views of the 250 in the proposed caravan."

The caravan, assembled from more than 20 west and midwest states, was due in Washington sometime Sunday.

Stephen A. Mitchell, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, and Sen. Russell (D.-Ga.) attacked the administration's farm policies in statements yesterday.

Russell told newsmen in Atlanta that farm income has dropped 1½ billion dollars because of "bumbling" by Benson. Mitchell told Kansas City Democratic party leaders that farm communities "fear that the administration's farm and economic policies may lead us to hard times."

At his news conference last Thursday, Eisenhower defended Benson against criticism, saying the secretary was a dedicated man.

At the same time, the President said he never had promised price supports at 100 per cent of parity. He said the aim of any decent farm program is to get farmers on the basis where the prices they get for their crops are comparable to the prices they pay for things they buy.

At Kasson on Sept. 6, 1952, Eisenhower said he stood behind the present 90 per cent parity supports, adding:

"All I know of farmers convinces me that they would rather earn their fair share than have it as a government handout. And a fair share is not merely 90 per cent of parity but full parity."

Mansfield said this has been widely interpreted and accepted by most farmers as a pledge eventually to attain 100 per cent parity supports.

"I favor full price supports and the sooner we get them the better off I believe the country will be," Mansfield declared.

George said he thinks that after the administration gets through studying the agricultural problem:

"I think they are going to recommend continuation of 90 per cent supports and their program won't be too radically different from that of the Democrats."

Settlement Reached In Negligence Case

Settlement was reached in a negligence action in Supreme Court Friday afternoon brought by Meyer Roseff and others against M. & W. Trucking Company and Jack Heiferman, an action arising out of an accident near Spring Glen. Louis Berger and Abraham Streifer appeared for plaintiffs and Arthur E. Ames for defendant.

A jury was taken and the case of Charles Frischling against Rubin and William Cohen, negligence, was commenced. This is an action arising out of a motor car accident near Ellenville. Kooperman & Kooperman for plaintiff and Donald H. McCann for defendants.

Settled was a negligence action brought by George Sisti and Francis Sisti against Burger's Furniture Store. Michael Nardone for plaintiff and Charley H. Gaffney for defendant, and a negligence action brought by Samuel R. Black against Paul August. Philip Korn for plaintiff and Charles H. Gaffney for defendant.

Court recessed until Monday at 10 a. m. when additions to the day calendar will be made.

Schirick May . . .

to the attention of Judge Schirick by attorneys in the case and it then became known Schirick was not holding a special term Tuesday.

A new show cause order may be obtained which could place the matter before another Justice on Monday. Both Justice Bookstein and Justice Roscoe V. Elsworth will be hearing special term matters on Monday. Justice Bookstein is holding a combined trial and special term in Sullivan county on Monday and Justice Elsworth is holding a combination trial and special term in Schoharie county on Monday. In both these counties special terms are held on Monday in connection with the trial terms.

Refusal Likely

The matter could be moved before either of those justices on a new order to show cause. Whether this will be done or whether the attorney general will waive jurisdiction and appear on Tuesday before Justice Schirick depends on the attitude taken today by the attorney general's office. Indications, however, point to a refusal to waive jurisdiction since there are apparently questions of law involved other than just the error in having the show cause order made returnable at a time when there is no special term being held.

'A' Sub Nearly Finished

Groton, Conn., Oct. 24 (AP)—The first atom-engined submarine, fantastic in possibilities but prosaic in outward appearance, is taking shape swiftly. Already her thick steel hull is being packed with the fission-fired steam plant that is expected to send the USS Nautilus farther, faster and deeper than any submersible ever built. Navy officials overseeing the building of the Nautilus at the Electric Boat Division of General Dynamics Corp. tell reporters that the atom sub is "well over 50 per cent complete."

Quiet Weekend Ahead

Washington, Oct. 24 (AP)—President and Mrs. Eisenhower arranged today to spend a quiet week-end at Camp David in the Catoctin Mountains near Thurmont, Md.

No. 1 in a series of RARE CREATURES:

THE WALKY GAWKY . . . she shops on fiery feet!

A WALKY GAWKY is a customer who shops before she reads a newspaper.

She hot-foots it from store to store looking for the things she wants to buy – straining her eyes and burning up her shoes.

Fortunately the WALKY GAWKY is a rare bird – almost extinct. Because practically all women everywhere read their newspapers before they shop. It's easier on the feet that way – as well as the pocketbook.

When a woman picks up the paper, she's looking for all that's going on in her town now. In the stores as well as in the streets and schools. At the counters as well as at the women's club and the court house.

That's why people who have something to sell depend on the newspaper to help 'em sell it fast.

All business is local . . . and so are all newspapers!

Wrong Pedal

New York, Oct. 24 (AP)—A 65-year-old woman lost control of her car yesterday on a busy Brooklyn street and the auto ran down a dozen pedestrians along 100 feet of sidewalk. None of the 12 was injured critically but the accident touched off momentary panic among the crowd of shoppers. Mrs. Anna Daly, driver of the car, told police a bus stopped unexpectedly in front of her and she apparently jammed on the gas pedal instead of the brake. The car glanced off the bus and hurtled the curb and into passersby.

Asks Rate Increase

Washington, Oct. 24 (AP)—The New York State Natural Gas Corp. of Pittsburgh has asked the Federal Power Commission for permission to increase its wholesale rates for natural gas by $5,306,000 annually, or 13.2 per cent. The company proposed in its request yesterday that the new rates go into effect Nov. 21. The FPC said the increase, if granted, would affect 20 utility customer companies in New York, Pennsylvania and Ohio.

Wrong Pedal

New York, Oct. 24 (AP)—A 65-year-old woman lost control of her car yesterday on a busy Brooklyn street and the auto ran down a dozen pedestrians along 100 feet of sidewalk. None of the 12 was injured critically but the accident touched off momentary panic among the crowd of shoppers. Mrs. Anna Daly, driver of the car, told police a bus stopped unexpectedly in front of her and she apparently jammed on the gas pedal instead of the brake. The car glanced off the bus and hurtled the curb and into passersby.

Asks Rate Increase

Washington, Oct. 24 (AP)—The New York State Natural Gas Corp. of Pittsburgh has asked the Federal Power Commission for permission to increase its wholesale rates for natural gas by $5,306,000 annually, or 13.2 per cent. The company proposed in its request yesterday that the new rates go into effect Nov. 21. The FPC said the increase, if granted, would affect 20 utility customer companies in New York, Pennsylvania and Ohio.

Charleston, S. C., Oct. 24 (AP)—Gen. Mark W. Clark will be the new president of The Citadel, state military college. Announcement of Clark's acceptance came yesterday from Gov. James F. Byrnes. The governor is an ex-officio member of The Citadel's board of visitors. The 57-year-old, four-star general retires from the army Oct. 31, and is expected to begin his new job next March.

Woodstock Honors Veterans of Korea

Woodstock, Oct. 23—Woodstock residents who fought in Korea were feted at a dinner at Deanie's Thursday night. Group with other speakers, rear, (l-r) Dr. James T. Shotwell, former professor of history at Columbia University; Pfc. Robert Rifenburg, Major William Shirey, recently returned POW; Norbert Heermann, chairman of the program; Cpl. Peter O. Brinkman, Sgt. Ludwig Baumgarten and Sgt. John Payne. Front (l-r) Mrs. Robert Rifenburg, Mrs. William Shirey, Mrs. Peter Brinkman, Mrs. Baumgarten and Mrs. Thomas Payne, mother of Sgt. WOODSTOCK NEWS

By RICHARD E. THIBAUT, Jr.

Shirey Explains Life as POW in Chinese Red Camp

Woodstock, Oct. 24—Five veterans of the Korean conflict, who have returned to their homes in this township, were honored at a dinner at Deanie's Thursday night, as well as several servicemen who are still on duty with the armed forces. Norbert Heermann, Woodstock artist, who was chairman for the affair and acted as master of ceremonies, introduced the guests.

They were Sgt. John Payne, of Shady, who entered Korea at Inchon in Nov. 1950 as assistant squad leader and pushed to the Manchurian border, and left Korea in Nov. 1951; Sgt. Ludwig Baumgarten spent 15 months in Korea, serving with the Eighth Army as NCO in charge of communication, (still a member of the 226th Signal Corps, he has reenlisted at Fort Wadsworth, S. I.); Cpl. Peter O. Brinkman who entered Korea at Hungnan, Oct. 1, 1950, went to Pusan and up north to Chunju and over the 38th Parallel; Pfc. Robert Rifenburg, who spent 16 months in Korea in the 89th Ordinance Field Maintenance Company stationed at Pusan; and Major William Shirey, recently returned prisoner of war.

Dr. Shotwell Speaks

Heermann introduced Dr. James T. Shotwell, of this village, former professor of history for 50 years at Columbia University, as the first speaker. Dr. Shotwell prefaced his message by noting that Pfc. Rifenburg was "the great-grandson of the man from whom I bought my farm here 40 years ago."

"The meaning of this war cannot be found in the hills of Korea," Dr. Shotwell said, "it is in the history and experience of America—in the Declaration of Independence, and the great Virginia gentleman, Thomas Jefferson who phrased it in terms of the pursuit of happiness."

Alluding to the "miracle of tonight's celebration" Heermann introduced the one "who was left for so long a time in Korea—Major William Shirey. Out of the 17 officers captured with him, only four returned."

Heermann also explained that the Shirey story had a prologue and an epilogue, and asked Warren Hutty to give an account of how the family received the news of the major's capture. After the major spoke, Bob Browning told of hearing the news of his release after the many months of waiting.

Before relating the deeply moving, profoundly tragic, yet at times hilariously funny story of life as a prisoner of war, Major Shirey reminded his audience that he "was active in service for six months before I got captured! Like many others I thought I might be killed, or wounded, but I never thought I'd be taken prisoner."

Tells of Capture

For over an hour Major Shirey held his large audience spellbound in silent attention as he led them through the first dark days of his capture, feeling the bitter cold of the winter of 1951, marching along frozen roads at night and hiding out from the U. S. planes during the day.

It was not the physical discomfort so much which impressed him as he was fortunately wearing his winter uniform, but the "acute boredom day after day of the gruesome existence." Disease caught up with the march, the dread dysentery which sapped the energies and took the lives of many. Two months of marching—a distance of about 500 miles—brought them to the famous "bean camp" where there were plenty of beans but they were never cooked enough to make them edible.

"Out of 600 men in our group, some 120 men were buried in six weeks."

Family Ties Helpful

Later in the evening when Major Shirey was asked what he believed was the greatest factor in survival, he replied that death claimed its greatest victims in the group under 20 years and those over 35. "The youngsters couldn't seem to see beyond the terrible plight of the day, while those over 35 were more prone to disease. Those in the middle group were physically able to withstand disease, and those with strong family ties had something to look forward to. That made a great difference in one's attitude. I had a wife and two children to think about."

After moving north again on April 24, 1951, they found conditions somewhat better. Chinese doctors began to give treatment and they began to get medical supplies.

"The real improvements began in July 1951," he remembers, "along with the coincidence of peace negotiations starting about the same time." They began to receive blankets, towels, toothbrushes and living conditions improved with flour, meat in reasonable amounts and vegetables available. "After that survival then depended on patience!"

From Nov. 1951 to August 1953 "it was the long wait, faced with the problem of keeping ourselves busy. Some played bridge for as long as eight hours at a stretch; there was woodcarving; and at last books began to come in. I was lost completely for 10 days reading Tolstoy's War and Peace and many other good books."

Finally the inevetible high spirits of the American fighting man were allowed expression when they were permitted to put on some shows—under Chinese censorship.

But the censorship itself provided a natural battleground for their wits and they tried to get the censors to pass a number based on Don't Fence Me In. The censors ruled it out as deteriorating to morale. One censorship ban still offers food for thought as they were refused permission to sing Carry Be Back To Old Virginny because of the reference to those fields of yellow corn which the censors claimed was slanderous to the Chinese people.

Started Fly Project

As a part of their activities the prisoners introduced vigorous fly control programs. Each man was required to swat 50 flies a day and hand them in for credit. Four thousand flies were worth a package of cigarettes.

There was the daily anguished wait for mail, the exposure to Communist indoctrination, sometimes as much as eight hours a day, which failed miserably with the prisoners, the discussions which "no doubt burned the ears of our Chinese monitors."

After an especially long harangue on the subject of prisoner policy, one of the Chinese asked "Haven't you received any lenient treatment at all?"

"The results were that their indoctrination program backfired 100 per cent," Shirey declared. "We realized what a wonderful place we had come from — its processes of government — its fundamental freedom."

Joyous Homeward Trip

The last trip was the joyous homeward trek when the news of release came. Excitement mounted aboard the Russian truck carrying them to Freedom Village, the only victim being the immaculate American MP, "white-gloved, standing straight and tall" who got a barrage of pent-up army greeting in reply to his wave. There was the Red Cross reception — with girls — a chaplain's welcome, ice cream, coffee, hot showers, and clean new uniforms.

Major Shirey described his ultimate arrival at San Francisco where he was met by his wife Jane Cleveland Shirey, and finally his welcome in Woodstock.

As a fitting conclusion to a stirring and inspiring evening Allan Gilbert, baritone, accompanied by Clem Nessel, sang the new song, I Believe. Later he was joined in a duet by Major Shirey in their version of Don't Fence Me In.

He pointed to the expulsion of the racket-ridden ILA from the AFL as a "fine example of courage in cleaning up a messy situation" but he warned that "this is just a beginning" and that the AFL, as well as the remainder of the unions, must be on the alert to deal "swiftly and courageously" with racketeers and subversives, "whenever and wherever they appear."

Shirey Explains Life as POW in Chinese Red Camp

Woodstock, Oct. 24—Five veterans of the Korean conflict, who have returned to their homes in this township, were honored at a dinner at Deanie's Thursday night, as well as several servicemen who are still on duty with the armed forces. Norbert Heermann, Woodstock artist, who was chairman for the affair and acted as master of ceremonies, introduced the guests.

They were Sgt. John Payne, of Shady, who entered Korea at Inchon in Nov. 1950 as assistant squad leader and pushed to the Manchurian border, and left Korea in Nov. 1951; Sgt. Ludwig Baumgarten spent 15 months in Korea, serving with the Eighth Army as NCO in charge of communication, (still a member of the 226th Signal Corps, he has reenlisted at Fort Wadsworth, S. I.); Cpl. Peter O. Brinkman who entered Korea at Hungnan, Oct. 1, 1950, went to Pusan and up north to Chunju and over the 38th Parallel; Pfc. Robert Rifenburg, who spent 16 months in Korea in the 89th Ordinance Field Maintenance Company stationed at Pusan; and Major William Shirey, recently returned prisoner of war.

Dr. Shotwell Speaks

Heermann introduced Dr. James T. Shotwell, of this village, former professor of history for 50 years at Columbia University, as the first speaker. Dr. Shotwell prefaced his message by noting that Pfc. Rifenburg was "the great-grandson of the man from whom I bought my farm here 40 years ago."

"The meaning of this war cannot be found in the hills of Korea," Dr. Shotwell said, "it is in the history and experience of America—in the Declaration of Independence, and the great Virginia gentleman, Thomas Jefferson who phrased it in terms of the pursuit of happiness."

Alluding to the "miracle of tonight's celebration" Heermann introduced the one "who was left for so long a time in Korea—Major William Shirey. Out of the 17 officers captured with him, only four returned."

Heermann also explained that the Shirey story had a prologue and an epilogue, and asked Warren Hutty to give an account of how the family received the news of the major's capture. After the major spoke, Bob Browning told of hearing the news of his release after the many months of waiting.

Before relating the deeply moving, profoundly tragic, yet at times hilariously funny story of life as a prisoner of war, Major Shirey reminded his audience that he "was active in service for six months before I got captured! Like many others I thought I might be killed, or wounded, but I never thought I'd be taken prisoner."

Tells of Capture

For over an hour Major Shirey held his large audience spellbound in silent attention as he led them through the first dark days of his capture, feeling the bitter cold of the winter of 1951, marching along frozen roads at night and hiding out from the U. S. planes during the day.

It was not the physical discomfort so much which impressed him as he was fortunately wearing his winter uniform, but the "acute boredom day after day of the gruesome existence." Disease caught up with the march, the dread dysentery which sapped the energies and took the lives of many. Two months of marching—a distance of about 500 miles—brought them to the famous "bean camp" where there were plenty of beans but they were never cooked enough to make them edible.

"Out of 600 men in our group, some 120 men were buried in six weeks."

Family Ties Helpful

Later in the evening when Major Shirey was asked what he believed was the greatest factor in survival, he replied that death claimed its greatest victims in the group under 20 years and those over 35. "The youngsters couldn't seem to see beyond the terrible plight of the day, while those over 35 were more prone to disease.
